FRENCH DESTROYER IS SENT TO BOTTOM OF ADRIATIC BY A MINE

Swedish Merchantman Struck by Mine or Torpedo in North Sea but Manages to Reach Her Port

TURKS CLAIM DAMAGE TO 3 ALLIED WARSHIPS

One American, a Southerner, William Bazzell, of Pensacola, Fla., Was Killed When the Carib Was Blown Up

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Two additions to the long list of disasters at sea during the war were made known today. The French destroyer Dague struck a mine in the Adriatic and went down with the probable loss of thirty-eight lives. The Swedish merchantman Svarton was damaged badly by a mine or torpedo in the North sea, but was able to reach a Dutch port. From Constantinople is announced a victory by the Turks over Russian forces in the trans-Caucasus. It is said that after a battle of several days the Russians were put to flight, having suffered heavy losses.

So far as official statements from London, Paris and Berlin show there have been no important changes on the main battle fields of the west or the east. In London the opinion is growing that the Germans are soon to make a great general attack in France, remaining on the defensive in Poland, Petrograd, on the other hand, fully expects another German drive at Warsaw, this time from the north.

One American—William Bizzel, of Pensacola, Fla.—an assistant engineer on the American steamer Carib, was killed when the ship was sunk by a mine in the North sea, February 22.

The American consul general at Rotterdam reported Bazzell's death today with that of two Spaniards, members of the crew. He added that the survivors were taken to Bremerhaven on a German patrol boat and will be sent home on the first ship.

Three warships of the Anglo-French fleet which bombarded the Dardanelles are said by Turkish authorities to have been damaged.

The Constantinople statement does not specifically refute the British claim that all of the outer forts of the Dardanelles were reduced, but conveys a contrary idea, asserting that the fleet withdrew after a bombardment of seven and a half hours.

Capture of Prasnysz, Poland, by the Germans, has not been confirmed from Petrograd. The latest report of the Russian general staff speaks of a concentration of German efforts in that direction.

Considerable successes for the Russians are claimed in actions along the Warsaw front, and in Galicia. The correspondent of a Cologne newspaper reports that the Russians have suffered another reverse in Bukowina and that their final opposition there has been shattered, the province being cleared of the invaders.

Fighting between Austria and Montenegro, almost at a standstill during the midwinter months, has been resumed. A dispatch from French sources says an Austrian force which attacked a Montenegrin column in the Austrian province of Bosnia was repulsed after a violent fight.

Germany is framing a reply to the American note concerning food supplies for civilians in the British countries and mines and submarines. Hope is growing in Berlin that the American proposals may form a basis for negotiations solving all the difficulties which have arisen.

The British admiralty statement says since February 18, when the German naval war zone decrees went into effect, there have been 705 arrivals and 673 sailings from British ports of the United Kingdom, and that German submarines have sunk seven vessels.

PARIS, Feb. 26.—The destruction of the French torpedo boat destroyer Dague in the Adriatic sea was announced today by the French ministry of marine.

Name of Captain Boy-Ed, of Embassy in Washington, Linked With Lody, Executed in London

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Federal authorities today began a rigid investigation of a statement by counsel for Richard P. Stegler, the German naval reservist arrested here Wednesday, that Captain Boy-Ed, naval attache to the German embassy in Washington, had furnished an American passport to Carl Hans Lody, the German spy put to death in the Tower of London last November, in a general denial of Stegler's statements involving him, Captain Boy-Ed referred to this allegation as "trash."

Charles H. Griffiths, former assistant United States attorney, who was assigned by United States Commissioner Houghton to defend Stegler, traced the names of the German naval attache and Lody in a statement given out after a conference with Stegler in the Tombs.

"Stegler told me," Mr. Griffiths said, "that on one occasion while he was on his way to keep an appointment with Captain Boy-Ed, a Dr. Fuehr told him that Captain Boy-Ed had carried through the scheme that made it possible to secure American passport for Lody and that Boy-Ed sent Lody to England. Stegler also said Dr. Fuehr had told him Boy-Ed was the only person who knew all the details of the Lody plot because he had planned the whole thing."

Mr. Griffiths said all Stegler's statements were corroborated by Mrs. Stegler, the young Georgia woman at whose suggestion Stegler abandoned his alleged plan to go abroad. According to Mr. Griffiths, Stegler was to have sailed for England to work for the German government in obtaining information as to an English dreadnaught fleet supposed to be in St. Georges channel.

SENT, MAN IN PLACE.

Stegler was to have gone on the steamer Franconia, according to the lawyer, and when he decided not to go a young German-American, whom he knew by sight but not by name, was assigned to the perilous task and sailed on the steamer with a bogus passport in his pocket.

The Franconia is due to arrive in Liverpool within a day or two.

Stegler was quoted by Mr. Griffiths as having said his negotiations with Boy-Ed had progressed to the point where they had discussed money that was to be paid Mrs. Stegler while her husband was in England. According to the lawyer, Captain Boy-Ed, in a talk with Stegler at the German club in this city, had agreed to pay Mrs. Stegler $150 a month while Stegler was in England. Should the British discover Stegler's mission and execute him, Mrs. Stegler was to get $150 a month as long as she lived.

Captain Boy-Ed denied all the statements alleged to have been made by Stegler. The naval attache said he had tried to obtain employment for Stegler, and had advanced him money on account because Stegler was penniless. He also thought he could place him with a friend in Germany who wanted to employ a good linguist. Captain Boy-Ed continued, he had decided Stegler was not a suitable person for the place and had refused to permit Mrs. Stegler to return the money advanced. This Stegler had not done, Captain Boy-Ed said.

MORE DENIALS.

Dr. K. A. Fuehr, who formerly was employed as an interpreter at the German consulate in Yokohama, Japan, gave out a prepared statement today in which he denied that part of Stegler's story which referred to him. The statement follows:

"Some time in January last Stegler appeared in my office with an introduction from the German naval attache, requesting me to give the man work in my office if it was possible for me to do so. Stegler told me that he had recently been married and that he was very hard up. He said he was a mechanic of the German naval reserve who was marooned in this country.

"If I had had a vacancy I might have given the man work. His report of our conversation as given in the newspapers is a fabrication from beginning to end. I had heard of Lody no more than what I have read in the newspapers. I have never seen Stegler since. When he left my office I advised him to call on the publisher of a local German magazine and ask him for employment."

George S. Vierick, editor of the magazine, Social Justice, was called on him, but instead of asking for work, asked assistance in securing an American passport, saying that he had work of a confidential nature to do. Mr. Vierick, who is an American citizen, said he refused to be a party to such a scheme.

WHEAT IS DRIVEN DOWN OVER 5 CENTS A BUSHEL

Fear of Opening Dardanelles, Releasing Russia's Wheat Supply, Is Cause

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Selling that savored of a panic swept wheat prices down more than 5 cents a bushel when the exchange opened today. Possibilities that the Dardanelles would be forced and Russia's wheat released were chiefly responsible.

May sold as low as $1.48 1-2 at the opening, against $1.53 5-8 at last night's close. July dropped 4 cents to $1.21 1-4.

Support from those who believed the bottom still was far away from being open, however, led to a partial recovery. May sold up to $1.49 3-4 and July to $1.23 within the first ten minutes of trading.

Feverish unloading followed, and the market soon went 2 cents below the lowest prices at the start, but rallied again with a rush, though not so strongly as before. On the second selling wave May dropped to 146 1-2, a fall of 7 1-8c compared with last night. The extreme setback for July was 4 7-8 to 120 3-8.

GREAT COST OF NEW COURT HOUSE APPALLS FULTON GRAND JURORS

Expenditures Over Original Estimate and Additional Funds Needed Mentioned in Presentments to Judge Hill

REGRET STRIFE IN THE CITY POLICE DEPARTMENT

Praise Condition of County Jail but Recommend Prisoners Be Given Three Meals Each Day

"We are appalled at the great cost of our new county court house," state the general presentments of the January term grand jury, of which General A. J. West is foreman, made to Judge Ben H. Hill Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

The presentments point out that the state capitol was built within the $1,000,000 originally appropriated for its erection, while, up to February 1, 1915, $1,400,000 has been spent upon the new court house and $100,000 more, the jury is informed, will have to be expended to complete the building.

S. B. Turman, chairman of the board of county commissioners, declares that it is evident from grand jury's comparisons that it went only casually into the expenditures for the new court house.

TURMAN'S STATEMENT.

"The county commission feels that it got its money's worth, when the court house was constructed," he declared, "and every builder, contractor or architect with whom I have talked agrees. "One contractor went broke on the job, and a bonding company finished his work. Several of the material men and others claim that they lost money on the job.

"The fact that we had to pay rents and the operating expenses of the courts on the building was in the course of construction is evidently not been considered. Yet we figured, and the grand jury has those figures, the rent and other expenses in the total cost of the new court house.

"When the capitol was erected twenty-five years ago material and labor were both 25 per cent cheaper than they are now, yet we have a better building and more floor space than the capitol."

The presentments also contain:

Expressions of regret over the factional strife which seems to pervade the city police force.

PRAISE FOR JAIL.

Recommendations that the present "faulty system" of preparing annual estimates of county expenditures be changed.

Recommendations for stern retrenchment in all departments of the county.

Condemnation of the proposed appropriation of $75,000 by the county for the Lakewood fair.

Condemnation of nepotism in the appointment of some county officials.

Condemnation of pensions for county employes.

Recommendations that the citizens of the county demand a reduction of the present high county tax rate.

Recommendations urging the county commissioners to reduce the number of employes of the county in a minimum.

Recommendations that more stringent laws for the regulation of pawn brokers, junk dealers and merchants who deal in second hand goods be promptly passed.

POLICE COURAGEOUS.

In regard to the police, the presentments state:

"It is doubtful if any community can boast a more courageous set of police officers than those of the city and county police departments of Atlanta and Fulton county. The number of arrests made by these officers, as shown by the number of cases brought before us, is convincing proof of the energetic attention to duty displayed by these officers of the law.

"We cannot refrain, however, from expressing a note of regret over the factional strife which seems to pervade the department of police in the city of Atlanta. Nothing is more demoralizing to the discipline of an organization than the continued nagging which is now being carried on. It fosters insubordination within the ranks, and creates distrust in the minds of the community at large.

"We believe also that stubborn adherence to a fixed policy by those high in authority in the department, in the face of a determined opposition there, is destructive of the morale of the force, and will inevitably lead to an instability in the part of the police to cope with the tremendous number of small crimes and misdemeanors which the industrial paralysis of the present hard winter has occasioned.

"While we have noticed an alarming increase in the number of crimes committed this winter, we sincerely believe that the situation is no more acute in Atlanta than it is in other congested communities throughout the country."

COUNTY JAIL.

In regard to the jail, the presentments state:

"We inspected the county jail in a body and found it in a clean and sanitary condition.

"We learned to our astonishment that county convicts are fed three meals a day for less than 20 cents per day for each person, while the sheriff is paid 37 1-2 cents per day each for feeding prisoners, and that only two meals are served to the latter on this daily allowance. The two daily meals in the jail are served at 6:30 a. m. and 12 noon respectively, and this arrangement is in our opinion, inadequate.

"We respectfully urge that some method be adopted for feeding the jail prisoners three times a day.

"The cooking at the jail needs improvement; especially is this true as to the corn bread.

"We advocate better ventilation of the jail in the winter. The building is kept at a temperature of from 65 to 70 degrees, and all the windows were closed

DEAN ATKINSON ACCEPTS DR. CHAPMAN'S PROPOSAL

DR. J. WILBUR CHAPMAN (on left) and DEAN JOHN B. ATKINSON, of St. Philip Cathedral.

Three New Developments in Controversy Between Dean Atkinson and Those Attacked in His Speech to Ad Men

MARION JACKSON AMENDS HIS DEFI TO WOODWARD

Dr. Atkinson Declares He Is Willing to Deliver a Sermon at Tabernacle or Receive Dr. Chapman at St. Philips

Developments in the controversy precipitated by the sensational remarks of Dr. John R. Atkinson, dean of St. Philip's cathedral, to the Atlanta Ad Men Thursday afternoon, are as follows:

Dr. Atkinson accepts Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman's invitation to show him a better way of preaching the gospel.

Bishop Warren A. Candler replies to Dr. Atkinson by saying the dean is "surely afflicted with some sort of conception of moral values in this line."

Mayor Woodward says he is too busy with the city's affairs to reply to Marion Jackson's defi at present, but will "attend to him later."

In his address to the Ad Men Dr. Atkinson questioned the methods of the Chapman-Alexander revival, criticised the Men and Religion attacks on Mayor Woodward in the "bulletins," advocated a vaudeville theater and a municipal dance hall, and paid his respects to Bishop Candler, etc.

Dr. Chapman came back at the dean by saying if the dean had a better method of preaching the gospel he would like for him to come to the revival tabernacle and preach. Marion M. Jackson, writer of the Men and Religion bulletins, came back at the dean with an invitation for Mayor Woodward to make public a letter from him (the mayor) to Mr. Jackson, written prior to a recent bulletin entitled, "An Open Letter to Mayor Woodward," the intimation conveyed by Mr. Jackson being that the mayor in this letter frankly declared his opposition to Chief Beavers.

Dr. Atkinson replies to Dr. Chapman in a statement dictated to The Journal Friday morning as follows:

"My proposal is in answer to Dr. Chapman's kind invitation are two. As I am perfectly sincere in my criticism of Dr. Chapman's methods as a writer of his advertising, I am willing to show him what I think a better way of preaching the gospel is than I can by two ways.

ATKINSON'S ACCEPTANCE.

"First, by inviting him to come next Sunday morning to my church, St. Philip's cathedral, where I will preach the gospel Sunday by Sunday in the best way I know. On this occasion I ask Dr. Chapman to be my guest, to enter the church beside me, and sit with me right hand during the service. I will prepare a sermon especially to meet the exigency of the hour, setting forth briefly the principles of the gospel, or the best way of saving souls. As Dr. Chapman is a visitor to the city, I should prefer to make him a guest in my own church.

"Second, failing in this proposal, my second proposal is that Dr. Chapman send me an invitation to preach in his tabernacle, not as a challenge but as a call to a man of God to bring a message from God to the souls of men. A few simple conditions might go with this proposal in order to give me entire freedom. If the invitation comes in this form on any night that I am free, I will accept it.

"Let brotherly love continue."

The Journal called Dr. Chapman at his room at the Majestic hotel to ask if he cared to make a statement in reply to the proposals of Dr. Atkinson, but Dr. Chapman had not yet risen from bed and his secretary was unwilling to disturb him at that hour. It was said he might give out a statement later in the day.

At 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, however, Dr. Chapman had made no statement.

CANDLER'S STATEMENT.

"Yes, my attention was drawn to this diverting deliverance of the doughty dean, but it is really a matter of no great importance. It is quite unique, but otherwise uninteresting. I can not recall another preacher who ever in one breath denounced as unsaved many souls and defended as many bad ones. One who can advocate dancing and assail a religious revival in the same talk is surely afflicted with some sort of confusion of moral values in his brain. I heard one man say that the dean was engaged in the doubtful business of "debasing the moral currency," but I would not say that. It it not to be taken so seriously. I take it that his talk was just a piece of fairly good-natured advertising; for I see the dear man professes to be fond of advertising. He evidently has a very high opinion of the virtues of advertising. I suppose it might be called advertising ex-cathedra. It is very doubtful from the context to be no good reason why it might not be repeated at the Savoy and thus vary the bill on Sundays."

JACKSON'S STATEMENT.

Marion M. Jackson Friday supplemented the challenge to Mayor Woodward regarding the mayor's letter by giving out the following statement:

"We've got an open letter now with the mayor. We've got no axe to grind. We don't even want to keep dinning on the police matter.

"But we cannot and will not sit still when we see a movement on foot which we believe is aimed at the removal of the chief of police for doing his duty.

"We realize we are fallible like other people. We are not trying to dictate. It is farthest from us to want to direct

SUPREME COURT JUSTICES QUIZ COUNSEL FOR STATE

BY RALPH SMITH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—In concluding his argument on the habeas corpus appeal of Leo M. Frank, before the supreme court this morning, Louis Marshall, of New York, insisted that the verdict returned at the trial was a nullity and that the judgment based upon it was also a nullity.

Warren Grice, attorney general of Georgia, followed Marshall and was themidst of his argument when the court took a recess at 2 o'clock for lunch. He resumed at 2:30 and was followed by Solicitor General Dorsey who prosecuted Frank.

Every member of the court was on the bench and asked questions of the opposing counsel — Associate Justice Lamar alone remained silent.

Mr. Justice Hughes brought out in questioning Attorney General Grice that in Frank's first application for a new trial the statement was made that the defendant was out of the court room when the jury returned its verdict. This was not mentioned, however, as one of the grounds on which a new trial was asked, said Mr. Grice.

HUGHES' QUESTIONS.

Justice Hughes asked a number of questions on this point and also on the state's legal procedure in Georgia. Mr. Grice read from the supreme court's decision on Frank's first application, as reported in 141 Georgia reports. Therein, it was recited that only two instances of disorder during the trial occurred within the hearing or knowledge of the jury. Both times the court rebuked those making the disorder and threatened to exclude onlookers if the following day.

"The action of the court was deemed satisfactory at the time and the orderly trial of the case was resumed without further question," said the Georgia decision.

Mr. Grice denied the statement of Marshall that the allegations made by Frank's counsel in Georgia Mr. Grice read from the supreme court's decision on Frank's first application, as reported in 141 Georgia reports. Therein, it was recited that only two instances of disorder during the trial occurred within the hearing or knowledge of the jury. Both times the court rebuked those making the disorder and threatened to exclude onlookers if the following day.

"The action of the court was deemed satisfactory at the time and the orderly trial of the case was resumed without further question," said the Georgia decision.

Mr. Grice denied the statement of Marshall that the allegations made by Frank's counsel since the verdict of guilty was rendered.

Mr. Grice said the Georgia supreme court had held that the verdict was not void and that the alleged fact that the court had lost jurisdiction of the prisoner.

Increased interest in the argument of the case was evidenced this noon when the court met. The room was crowded to capacity with lawyers, laymen and a number of stylishly-gowned women, while a long line formed in the corridor awaiting entrance.

Louis Marshall, of counsel for Frank, presented Henry C. Peeples to the court for admission, following which the New York lawyer resumed his one argument in behalf of the condemned man. It is not the purpose of Mr. Peeples to address the court.

The contentions of the attorneys revolved around whether the trial court had lost jurisdiction over the prisoner either by fear of "mob violence" manifested throughout the trial, or by Frank's absence from the court room when the jury returned its verdict. Other points concerned questions as to whether the writ of habeas corpus was the proper remedy in view of all that had taken place in the case.

MARSHALL'S ARGUMENT.

Contending that the trial court, which found Frank guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan, had lost its jurisdiction over the prisoner because of mob violence tolerated during the trial and because of the consequent absence of the prisoner from the court upon the coercion of the trial judge when the verdict was rendered, attorneys for Frank yesterday argued before the supreme court of the United States that he should be freed from custody. ALLEGED PAL OF PURTELL CONFESSES, POLICE CLAIM

Accused Man Worked With Gang of Auto Thieves, Officers Charge

With the arrests of W. R. Purtel, 42 Gordon place, manager of the so-called Georgia Good Roads company, 807 Austell building, and C. W. Holmes, 129 Spring street, a bookkeeper, the city detectives believe they are in a fair way to solve the mystery surrounding the theft of a number of automobiles during the past few days.

Purtell, whose company advertises that its specialty is the tracing and recovering of stolen automobiles, was arrested Thursday night upon the complaint of Dr. A. L. Whitehead, dentist, whose machine was stolen from in front of the Ansley hotel on Forsyth street Wednesday evening. A warrant charging larceny was taken out against him in the municipal court Friday and he was committed to the tower in default of a $2,000 bond. He denies all knowledge of the thefts and insists that he has been conducting a legitimate business.

Holmes, who was arrested Friday morning and locked up at police headquarters on a blanket charge of suspicion, has, according to the detectives, confessed that he has been connected with a gang headed by Purtell.

The detectives say that Holmes told them that Purtell, who pretended to run a bureau for recovering stolen automobiles, was really in league with a gang of young men; that he would plan thefts of machine, have one of the gang steal the car and drive it off; that he would then get in touch with the owner of the car and engage himself to locate it, charging for his services a fee and expense.

When engaged by the owners, according t ofHolmes' alleged confession to detectives, Purtell would send another member of his gang to go bring the car in and this member would collect the reward offered, which was usually $25. The fee and expense money collected by Purtell would, says Holmes, be divided between himself and the member of the gang who first carried off the car.

Holmes, it is said, admitted that on Thursday afternoon, acting upon instructions from Purtell, he took Dr. Whitehead's car from a garage, where it had been previously taken by another member of the gang, and drove it to Jonesboro, where he left it. He is said to have implicated a number of other young men about town, whom the detectives are looking for.

Purtell's arrest followed some detective work done by Dr. Whitehead on his own account. Dr. Whitehead received a letter from Purtell early Thursday morning telling him that he had traced his automobile and inviting him to come to the latter's office and arrange for its recovery.

In the meantime Dr. Whitehead learned that his car, a five-passenger Ford, engine number 550432, and state license number 6701, had been taken from a private garage on Courtland street early Thursday morning by Purtell. According to Dr. Whitehead, a negro employed by the owner of the garage came upon Purtell at the way printing upon the door of the garage, whereupon Purtell gave the negro his card and told him that he was recovering a stolen automobile which had been placed in the garage the night before by unknown persons.

Purtell then had the car taken to a

SEVEN BRITISH CRUISERS ARE REPORTED DAMAGED

Crippled Vessels Lying at Falkland Islands, Report Received in Berlin

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(By Wireless.)—The Cologne Gazette has published a letter received in Germany from Montevideo, Uruguay, in which it is declared seven British cruisers are lying at the Falkland Islands in Port Stanley, Atlantic, severely damaged. This information has been brought into Montevideo, the letter says, by the officers of an Argentine steamer.

It was in December that a British squadron met and overcame a group of German cruisers off Falkland islands. Every one of the seven British warships which took part has since been reported in news dispatches as active.

Under present circumstances it probably takes a letter more than a month to go from Montevideo to Germany.

MANY RUSSIAN GENERALS CAPTURED, GERMANS SAY

Berlin War Office Issues Statement About Battle of Mazurian Lakes

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(Via Amsterdam and London.)—At the war office today the following statement was issued:

"The following Russian generals were captured in the battle of the Mazurian lakes: the commanding general of the Twentieth army corps, also the commander of artillery and the commanders of the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth divisions of infantry, also the commander of the First brigade of infantry. The commander of the Twenty-ninth died.

"From the Third army corps we captured the commander of the Twenty-seventh division of infantry, also the commanders of artillery and of the Second brigade of infantry.

"From the Fifty-third reserve division those captured include the commander and also the commander of the First brigade of infantry.

Marshall, of New York, began the opening argument in the case and will continue it today, when the representatives of the state of Georgia also will be heard.

The court was considering the appeal from the action of the federal district court for northern Georgia in denying Frank's release from custody in which he was placed for the execution of the death sentence imposed by the trial court.

Mr. Marshall first stated the effect upon the jurisdiction of the court of Frank's absence when the verdict was rendered. His statement that Judge Roan, of the trial court, coerced Frank into being absent was questioned by Chief Justice White. Mr. Marshall declared the suggestion, by the trial judge, that Frank's life and limb and those of his counsel might be in danger if they attended, amounted to coercion.

The attorney sought to establish that the right to be present at one's trial was one that could not be denied.

"We have held that a court may abolish a trial by jury, and I do not see why a state may not abolish one of the incidents to a jury trial," interrupted Justice Pitney. "The decisions you cite refer to federal cases."

Chief Justice White also asked questions along that line.

Mr. Marshall replied it was a question of due process of law, and while the fifth amendment to the constitution guaranteed due process in federal cases, the guaranty of due process in state cases in the fourteenth amendment was the same in effect. He contended that while a state might abolish a trial by jury, it could not abolish the right to be present at whatever kind of trial was provided, because of "due process."

In the closing moments of the session, Mr. Marshall took up the point of mob violence.

"I am free to confess that point is one that impresses me very much," volunteered Justice Holmes as the attorney began his argument.

"This court has said that there must be a trial before a competent tribunal," began the attorney. "A competent tribunal is one that holds the scales of justice impartially, that is not swayed by fear or favor. Here the trial was marked by prejudice and hostility. There, jeers at counsel for Frank were permitted when they lost a point. The crowds almost trespassed upon the jury box, hanging over the jury box and their whispers were heard throughout the court room. Applause greeted the solicitor general when he appeared at the seat of Justice, and then the judge held a conference in the presence of the jury with the chief of police and a commanding officer of the state militia. That was a demonstration that probably had no parallel in the history of trials. Finally the court asked counsel to meet him in private conference and then upon the insistance of the court that the prisoner might be torn from the sanctuary of the court and lynched by a mob if he was present when the verdict was returned, counsel consented to his being absent. The jury was left to return its verdict to the prosecuting officer and the mob. They knew what that meant."

Justice Pitney inquired if the Georgia supreme court had not passed upon all these facts, whereupon Justice Holmes asked if Mr. Marshall did not mean that, if these were the facts, it did not matter if twenty courts had passed upon them.

MARSHALL RESUMES.

Resuming his argument when the court met today, Mr. Marshall quoted from the state's brief that "it appears that the agreement of counsel that Frank not be present at the reception of the verdict was made in the interest of Frank and for his protection."

"For his protection against what?" asked Mr. Marshall. "Against the law? Against the constitution? Against his right to a hearing on his trial? No. For his protection against the consequences of lawlessness, of anarchy, of mob domination, of the control of the legal proceedings under which he was entitled to be tried.

"Counsel come here and tell us it was for the protection of the prisoner that the court did this, and yet claim he was accorded all the ordinary, calm processes of the law.

"Our contention is that in consequence of the circumstances which then existed, the character of which was recognized by the presiding judge, law ceased to reign, terror ruled in its stead, and fear sat trembling in the seat of justice.

"The court realized the bankruptcy of judicial procedure; recognized the protection of the law had broken down and nothing remained except a domination, a coercive power. There was no longer a court, no longer a trial; and no longer did the court have any more jurisdiction over the prisoner than if Judge Roan had been driven from the bench by a mob. The court had been superseded by a judicial lynching."

WHITE ASKS QUESTION.

Chief Justice White asked Mr. Marshall if he thought a man who had been in the penitentiary for ten years, and whose conviction had been affirmed by a state supreme court, could come before the supreme court of the United States, and by alleging things outside the record of his trial, such as prejudice by the trial judge, secure a writ of habeas corpus on a question of jurisdiction. The attorney answered in the affirmative.

"Then this court would become a court of general jail delivery," replied the chief justice.

Mr. Marshall replied it made no difference whether it was made ten years or one day after conviction, but the question was whether constitutional questions of jurisdiction could be kept from the supreme court by a state supreme court resting its affirmance on grounds of procedure and not constitutional grounds.

"But we passed on that when we denied your application for a writ of error," responded the chief justice. "We have held a state court could not deny our right to review by the way in which it worded its ruling."

ANOTHER JITNEY COMPANY ORGANIZED IN ATLANTA

Organizers Claim Number of Advantages of the Jitney Service

Spurred on by the success of the jitney buses of Kansas City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Memphis and other cities, the Motor Bus corporation of Atlanta has been organized for jitney service. The corporation hopes to profit by the many mistakes of these pioneers in the jitney transportation field and are carefully planning every detail before applying for a charter.

A. B. Conklin, recently president of the Atlanta Telephone company, and D. E. McCarthy, president of the Southern Dorris company, and formerly sales manager of the Burroughs Adding Machine company, of Detroit, are the men who have charge of the organization and are fostering the movement.

Advantages claimed by the jitney organizers are:

The saving of time—three to five minutes a mile.

No possibility of the service being tied up as with street cars where if one car stops the entire line is involved.

Independence of supply of power, which when controlled by one source often fails and stops all transportation.

Flagman Loses Foot

Stepping from the path of a switch engine which he had flagged forward, W. I. Johnson, crossing flagman at Thurmond street, stepped onto another track in the path of another switch engine and had his left foot crushed as a result. The accident occurred Thursday evening and was witnessed by several persons who were waiting the train's passing to cross the street. Johnson was rushed to the Atlanta hospital, where his foot was amputated.

HIGH SCHOOL SYSTEM IS ENDANGERED, SAYS MAYOR

May Be Entirely Swept Away, He Tells Board of Education

The intimation that the entire high school system may be swept away if the fight for the normal training school and for increased pay for teachers at the Girls' High school is continued was made by Mayor Woodward at a meeting of the board of education Thursday afternoon.

The mayor declared that he had discussed the matter with a former judge of the state supreme court and that in the opinion of the jurist the high school system is not well founded in law.

"The city receives annually from the state about $100,000 for schools," said the mayor, "and if you will read carefully the common school act, you will see that by maintaining the high schools as a part of its system the city is skating on very thin ice, and likely the courts would not uphold any expenditure for high schools."

That a general fight on the high school system is likely seems probable from the mayor's remarks.

"I believe every child, every single one in the city, should have the right and opportunity of a common school education, but we should not go further than that.

"I do not believe that the people should be called upon to pay for the maintenance of institutions which go further than that."

The mayor in stressing his statement that every child should have the opportunity of the common school education, said that he would favor the Columbus or some other plan of municipal ownership of books so that even the poorest child could be supplied with them.

WHITE ADDRESSES BOARD.

W. Woods White, who attended the meeting, addressed the board on the subject of furnishing the books to school children, and declared that the city might as well equip fire stations and then not furnish water to put fires out as to furnish free schools and not free school books.

Mayor Woodward told the board before he had finished speaking that if the salaries for the normal school teachers were included in the general school pay rolls he would hold up the pay of all the teachers in the Lee Street school and therefore he asked that the salary list for that school be made out separately.

After he had made his address the mayor left, and the board finally adopted a compromise proposed by Major R. J. Guinn.

In effect the compromise is that the salary of Miss Mary Postell, principal, who is also principal of the Lee Street school, be reduced from $1,900 to $1,600, per annum and the salary of Miss Mary Anderson, assistant principal of the Normal school and of the Lee Street school, be reduced from $1,900 to $1,500, and the salary of Miss Simpson, teacher in the Normal, from $1,500 to $1,200 per annum. The list, however, goes in the general Lee Street salary budget, so that if the mayor does not agree to the compromise he will have to hold up the pay of all of the teachers.

Mayor Woodward said Friday morning that he is afraid that he will have to hold up the salaries of all the teachers of the Lee Street school, as the board has failed to carry out the instructions of council by abolishing the Normal school and still gives the teachers there remuneration for the Normal school work.

However, he later had a harmonious conference with Major Guinn, who pointed out to the mayor he has saved $2,800, the total amount of the normal school salaries, for the board is going to retrench in other lines and save the $2,800 not taken away from salaries Thursday.

The mayor is firm in the position that the normal school should be abolished and that it virtually has been by the action of council, which he charges the board is disregarding.

The board, however, is unanimous in the stand that the council resolution does not abolish the school, and it is also unanimous in the opinion that a normal school is absolutely necessary.

Alderman Jesse Armistead told the board that it was not the intention of council to abolish the normal school, when it passed the resolution cutting $2,800 from the school appropriation, and he urged that no reduction be made by the board. However, the board accepted the Guinn compromise as a substitute to his motion.

ATLANTA ATHLETIC CLUB MAY SPLIT MEMBERSHIP

Proposal to Divide Into Two Clubs Is Taken Under Advisement

A meeting of the members of the Atlanta Athletic club will be held Friday night for the purpose of hearing a report by a ways and means committee appointed to investigate the club's financial affairs.

In this report the committee recommends that the club be divided into two clubs, the town house being taken over by an athletic club and the East Lake club being taken over by a golf club.

The members will not be asked to vote on this report but simply to take it under consideration and be prepared to vote at a later meeting and state which of the two clubs they will join.

MR. JOSEPH COHEN.

Mr. Joseph Cohen, forty-six years old, died at his home, 302 Central avenue, Friday morning about 8 o'clock. He is survived by his wife. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at Greenberg-Bond's chapel, and the interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

OSTEOPATHS MAY BRING 1916 CONVENTION HERE

Plans were launched to secure the 1916 convention of osteopaths for Atlanta at a meeting of the Atlanta Osteopathic society at the Piedmont hotel Thursday night. This convention will hold its 1915 session at Portland, Maine, and a delegation from Atlanta will bring strong pressure to get the next one.

"Insanity and How Certain Forms Are Amenable to Osteopathic Treatment," was the chief subject of discussion Thursday night. Much interest centered in the work in this field being done by the Still Hildreth sanitarium at Macon, Mo. About twenty physicians were in attendance.

LELAND POWERS PLEASES IN DAVID COPPERFIELD

Leland Powers, actor and interpreter, was heard by a large audience at the auditorium Thursday night in "David Copperfield," by Charles Dickens. The speaker in his impersonations went through the parts of all the principal characters with ease and facility.

Preceding Mr. Powers, Prof. Hubert Clyde Limscott, of Brenau college, baritone soloist, was heard in several pleasing songs. Miss Mary Louis Pagett, an Atlanta girl, now a member of the faculty of Brenau college, played his accompaniments.

BILL OFFERED TO FORCE ROADS TO SHOW LETTERS

Commission's Report in Case of L. & N. Brings Quick Action

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Senator New lands introduced a bill today to empower the interestate commerce commission to examine all papers of a common carrier, including correspondence. It would amend the law to meet the supreme court's decision that the commission did not have power to inspect the correspondence of the Louisville and Nashville.

The commission, in its report to the senate, in response to a resolution of that body, alleged that the Louisville and Nashville acquired competing lines and that it conducted at an expenditure of millions of dollars an elaborate political and publicity campaign to eliminate competition and influence public opinion.

In the recital of political activities of the roads, the commission announces its inability to set forth all the money these carriers have expended in political and publicity work, but the items which its investigators discovered and which it has placed in the report under the head of political contributions run into the millions. In connection with the Tennessee Railroad association, formed by carriers in 1884 to combat adverse legislation in Tennessee, the report is specific in its allegations.

"The various payments made on account of the Tennessee Railroad association, the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway and the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company," said the report, "were to a large extent made to state officials and legislators of Tennessee, municipal officers of Nashville, political lobbyists and attorneys. Investigation showed that payments made by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis in this connection aggregating over $20,000, could be definitely assigned to persons formerly or at present holding public office, but the total amount paid to such persons was no doubt much in excess of this sum."

The commission pointed out the need of further investigation together with an inspection of the railroads' correspondence. Under the decision of the supreme court last Tuesday the commission is powerless to make such an inspection.

It was considered doubtful in congressional circles whether, in view of the short time before adjournment, anything in legislative way can be done at this session giving the commission access to the correspondence files of the railroads.

GERMANY BARS AUTOS FOR PLEASURE OR SPORT

Purpose Is to Save Gasoline, Lubricant Oil and Rubber, Needed in War

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(Via London.)—The bundesrath has adopted a measure under which the number of automobiles in Germany not being used for military purposes will be reduced about one-half. The purpose is to save gasoline, lubricant oil and rubber.

The order provides that after March 15 all cars must have new licenses. These will be issued only on proof of public necessity. The bundesrath announcement says:

"This limitation has practically the purpose of eliminating all automobiles serving purposes of pleasure or sport. At the same time it will compel the public to enjoy other means of transportation, such as railroads, street cars and horse drawn cabs in increased measure."

RAILWAY TRAINMEN HEAD IN ATLANTA FOR DAY

Lee and Party Entertained by Members of Local Orders

W. G. Lee, president of the grand lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, accompanied by Dan L. Cease, editor and manager of the Trainman's Journal, and James A. Farquharson, vice president for the district in which Atlanta is located, arrived in the city at 7 o'clock Friday morning on a sweeping trip of inspection of the south.

This is the first time in two years members of the Atlanta brotherhood have had the privilege of entertaining their leader, and elaborate preparations were made for the day, the chief feature of which was a meeting of over a thousand members at the Piedmont at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. They were addressed by President Lee.

The visiting party was met at the train Friday by committees from the three local lodges of the brotherhood and escorted to the Piedmont.

Mr. Lee and Mr. Cease will leave Atlanta Friday night for headquarters in Cleveland. Mr. Farquharson going to Chattanooga. Atlanta is the last stop on the president's inspection tour, which began in Texas on the 17th and embraced nearly every prominent city in the south. He expressed himself as exceedingly pleased with the results of the tour.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CAMILLA, Ga., Feb. 26.—A package containing $3,650 was stolen from the Southern Express company yesterday. The package was from the A. C. L. railway here to the Savannah Bank and Trust company. The agent had signed for the package and laid it on a shelf near the ticket window at the Coast Line depot while he attended to other business.

Suspicion is directed to two negroes who bought tickets to Pelham and did not use them but no trace has been found of them nor is their identity known. Local officers are at work on the case.

Everyone Admires This Good-Looking Woman

Wherever you go you hear people comment upon a pretty woman and it is really her beautiful hair more than perfect features that gives the appearance of charm, youth and beauty.

Any woman can merit this praise, for beautiful hair is only a matter of care. Just as a plant needs attention and nourishment so must the hair have care and nutriment to make it grow long, soft, fluffy and lustrous. The scalp must be free from dandruff, and the hair roots properly nourished, as nature intended.

Parisian Sage, which is delicately perfumed and easily applied is just what is needed. It tones up and invigorates the roots of the hair and furnishes the necessary elements to make it grow long, soft, abundant and full of life.

One application of this scientific tonic removes every trace of dandruff and cleanses the hair of dust and excess oil. Why not start now to beautify the hair by using Parisian Sage, the great tonic treatment? It is inexpensive and easily applied at home. It can be had from Jacobs' 11 stores, or any drug or toilet counter and will surely do wonders for your hair.—(Advt.)

Estimates for Year Ending March 31, 1916, Puts It $1,250,000,000

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 26.—An additional $185,000,000 will be needed to meet Great Britain's war expenses up to the end of the fiscal year, March 31, according to supplementary government estimates given out today. That will make the total outlay for this year $1,810,000,000. The estimates place requirements for the year ending March 31, 1916, at $1,250,000,000.

Among the purposes of the $185,000,000 estimate announced today is a project to raise funds by British dominions and protectorates outside United Kingdom and by the powers allied with Great Britain.

FRANK DEFENSE BRIEF AND STATE'S ANSWER

Defense Charges That Although Mob Did No Violence Its Outbreaks Had Influence on Jury

State's Answer to Defense's Brief to U. S. Supreme Court Says Frank Has Enlarged Allegations of Mob Influence

Ten grounds, referred to as "points," are embraced in the brief filed with the United States supreme court in the case of Frank's counsel. Each of these points is made the sub-heading or headnote to a chapter in the brief book, which contains 227 pages, a large portion of which is devoted to citations.

NOT PRESENT AT VERDICT.

Point I. The reception by the superior court of Fulton county of the verdict by which the appellant was condemned to death, in his absence and without his consent or authority, and in the absence of his counsel, was such a violation of due process of law, within the meaning of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, as to bring about a loss of jurisdiction of the court and nullification of the verdict and judgment.

Point II. Not only was the appellant deprived of due process of law, because he was by the action of the court kept out of the courtroom when the verdict was rendered, but the entire proceedings became coram non judice, because of mob domination, to which the presiding judge succumbed and which in effect wrought a dissolution of the court.

Point III. The right of the appellant to be present during the entire trial, including the time of the rendition of the verdict and the polling of the jury and discharge, is one which neither he nor his counsel could waive or adjure.

Point IV. It would seem to follow logically from the propositions thus far discussed that if neither Frank in his own person nor his counsel could expressly waive his right to be present at the rendition of the verdict, that right could not be waived by implication or in consequence of any pretended ratification by him or acquiescence on his part in any action taken by his counsel.

Point V. If, therefore, Frank's absence at the reception of the verdict constituted an infraction of due process of law, which could not be waived, directly or indirectly, expressly or impliedly, before or after the rendition of the verdict, the fact that he did not raise the jurisdictional question on his motion for a new trial, did not deprive him of his constitutional right to attack the judgment as a nullity.

Point VI. Even if the decision of the supreme court of Georgia were to be interpreted as deciding that a motion for a new trial is the only method by which the constitutional question with which we are now concerned, can be raised, then, we contend that such a decision, as applicable to the present case would be in conflict with the constitution of the United States, because it would be an ex post facto law.

JURISDICTION LOST.

Point VII. It follows from the propositions thus far discussed that appellant's application for a writ of habeas corpus is squarely based on the contention that, when the verdict against him was received and judgment was rendered against him the court had lost such jurisdiction as it previously possessed, and the verdict and judgment upon which he was detained were absolute nullities, thus making habeas corpus the proper remedy to test the validity of his detention thereunder.

Point VIII. The appellant had, before applying for a writ of habeas corpus, exhausted all of his remedies in the state courts, and had ineffectually applied for a writ of error to review their determination. This remedy invoking the federal constitution for the protection of his life is, therefore, the last resort, and he conforms in every respect to the practice which the court has pointed out as controlling in like cases.

Point IX. Judge Newman entirely misconceived the conditions which led to a denial of a writ of error to review the judgment of the supreme court of Georgia, and misapplied them.

ENTITLED TO DISCHARGE.

Point X. In the present case, the superior court of Georgia had jurisdiction over the appellant after his indictment and down to the later stages of his trial. The verdict and all subsequent proceedings, being nullities, he is entitled to his discharge from the void judgment and to be relieved from the void sentence of death. He does not, however, contend that he cannot be held for further trial under the indictment.

The main chapter of the brief deals at length with the allegations concerning mob influence. Among other things it says:

MOB INFLUENCE.

"Instead of quelling the outbursts of the mob, or seeking to allay its demonstrations, or asserting the judicial power and enabling justice to pursue its uninterrupted away, the court surrendered and abdicated its functions, and temporized with those whose lawlessness defied the duly constituted authorities, at the decisive moments of the trial, and permitted itself to be coerced, by ominous threats of prejudice and by the terrors of violence, into denying to the most substantial and elementary rights of the man whose steadfast insistence on his innocence had intensified the hostile passions of his enemies. What the court did at this important moment, which meant life or death to the accused, was a judicial act, but it is impossible to believe, from the facts which stand uncontradicted on the record, that the jury was not made to feel that its only function was to register the will of the mob. When the jurors returned into the court room, and found the prisoner absent, and his counsel absent, with none to look into their faces but the excited multitude, and when, after the first juror had been seated, the tumult of applause and the cheers that were bellowed were so resounding as to prevent the responses of the jurors as they were polled, from being heard ten feet away, is it possible to believe that the jurors acted as free moral agents, or that they were not subjected to a species of duress that swept from their minds every thought save that of personal jeopardy?

"A trial amid such concomitants is a travesty. It is not a legal proceeding. It is not conducted in a tribunal in which justice is administered in a secure and orderly manner, free from external coercive influences, calmly, soberly, without fear or favor, without passion or prejudice. It is rather a tribunal where law has been detroned, where fear sits trembling on the judgment seat.

"A fair trial is universally recognized as one of the conditions without which due process of law cannot exist."

Although the state's brief, answering and opposing Frank's appeal to the United States supreme court, contains but eighty-eight pages, it is divided into seventeen subheads, and like the defense brief is given over very largely to a citation of authorities on the points involved.

The seventeen subheads or headnotes are as follows:

1. Status of the case of the state of Georgia vs. Frank (insofar as same can be shown by reference to the record now before this court) as it was when the supreme court of Georgia passed upon appellant's motion to set aside the verdict; and a comparison of this with the allegations in the application for writ of habeas corpus.

WOULD OVERTURN CONVICTION.

2. Appellant is asking this court to grant him a writ of habeas corpus which will virtually overturn his conviction in the state court without submitting to the United States courts important portions of the record on which the judgment is based, and on which he is being held.

3. The decision of the supreme court of Georgia holding that Frank had not adopted the correct procedure in invoking in the state court the effect of his absence when the verdict was received was not the passage of an ex-post-facto law, but followed prior decisions.

4. A brief discussion of the decision of the supreme court of Georgia on the merits.

5. Every question presented by the application for habeas corpus having already been presented by him to the state court and its decision invoked and its judgment rendered adverse to him, the principle of res adjudicata applies and for that reason alone the questions cannot be reopened here.

6. Where oral evidence is required to show want of jurisdiction, habeas corpus will not discharge the prisoner.

NOT WRIT OF ERROR.

7. The writ of habeas corpus cannot be made use of to perform the functions of a writ of error.

8. Irregularities, no matter how gross, will not be sufficient to obtain a release on habeas corpus.

9. A discussion of due process of law. The incorporation of the due process clause in the fourteenth amendment does not result in an overturning of well settled principles and established usages prevailing in states, nor to deprive the states of the power to establish other systems of law and procedure, or alter the same at their will.

10. Does the fourteenth amendment require the presence of a defendant in court at the reception of a verdict?

11. The presence of a defendant in court at the reception of the verdict does not go to the jurisdiction of the court.

12. Waivers such as were made in this case by the prisoner's counsel are binding on the prisoner.

13. Frank cannot repudiate the acts of his counsel.

14. The supreme court of the United States will not grant the relief asked by Frank in this application in view of what has heretofore taken place in the supreme court of Georgia and by the supreme court of the United States in denying him a writ of error.

15. The jurisdiction of the United States will not permit Frank to do by indirection that which it already has held Frank could not do directly.

16. The supreme court of Georgia had jurisdiction to determine whether Frank's counsel could waive his presence, and even if this court should think that ruling error, habeas corpus cannot correct it.

17. The action of the court in permitting Frank's counsel to waive his presence, if erroneous, was a mere irregularity in the matter of procedure, and certainly habeas corpus cannot avail to discharge the prisoner.

In discussing the alleged disorders in the court room during Frank's trial, the state's brief contends that he should have made his motion for a new trial at the time they occurred and calls attention to the fact that all of the questions raised in this connection have been passed on by the Georgia supreme court. On this subject it says in part:

"The only difference between the questions submitted to the courts of Georgia and the federal courts is that Frank does not present to the federal courts as a ground for relief as many instances of alleged disorder as he urged for a new trial in the state court, but he has endeavored in his application to the federal court to enlarge his allegations as to the disorder with reference to the few instances which he does see fit now to present in this application.

"No motion for a mistrial, it will be seen by reference to this record, was ever made by counsel for Frank at the time said alleged disorder occurred, and therefore occurred in the presence and knowledge of the jury.

"In other words, counsel for Frank did not at any time indicate to the court any dissatisfaction with the action that the court took at the time upon any incident in the court room that had been presented to the court, except in the two instances to which reference has been made."

The state points out that "for over seven and nearly eight months, during which time he had been once sentenced, had made two motions for a new trial, he had never presented to the state courts or to the federal courts any proposition claiming a lack of due process of law in that he was not present when the verdict was rendered."

With reference to the allegation that the trial court was swayed by the influence of the mob-spirit the state points out law providing for change of venue in cases where it appears a defendant may not obtain a fair trial and also the act which authorizes judges to allow a change of venue on his motion. In this connection the brief says:

"The record nowhere discloses that Frank, though he was represented by several counsel, presumably in possession of a knowledge of the temper of the people of the community, ever made any motion to change the venue, and hence it is a fair inference that whatever antagonistic public sentiment, if any, developed at the time the matters referred to in ground 75 of the motion occurred, was brought about and grew out of the character of the evidence and the case made by the state. Presumably, the judge did his duty, and presumably there was no antagonistic sentiment on the part of the public to Frank at the time he started into his trial, for had there been, presumably the judge, under the authority of the statute cited, would have, of his own motion, changed the venue; and if not, then, presumably, the public sentiment, if any, claimed by Frank to have been manifest during the trial, was the natural outgrowth and consequence of the evidence adduced on the trial of Frank for the heinous crime of murder."

WHAT CAUSES COLDS?

This question and "How to Prevent Colds" is asked a thousand times every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but due to a disordered condition of the blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the body better able to resist the varying electric influences.

This is the underlying reason why the medicinal fats in Scott's Emulsion quickly overcome colds and build strength to prevent more serious sickness. It contains nature's medicinal fats, so skillfully prepared that the blood profits from every drop, and it is free from harmful drugs or alcohol.

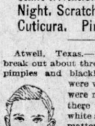
PAINFUL PIMPLES DISFIGURED FACE

Very Sore, Large and Red. Constant Irritation. Kept Awake at Night. Scratching Irritated. Used Cuticura. Pimples Were Gone.

Atwell, Texas.—"My face began to break out about three years ago with small pimples and blackheads some of which were very sore. The pimples were most large and red and there were some which were white and contained a watery matter. The red ones contained a hard substance. The breaking out disfigured my face very much and the constant irritation was very painful. It bothered me keeping me awake at night and I could not keep from scratching. After a month or two I found my whole body breaking out.



"Finally I noticed an advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a free sample and after the third day my face began to get better. I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap and in three weeks' time the acne had completely left my face. My pimples were gone." (Signed) Herman Andrews, August 10, 1914.

Mother's Friend Before Baby Arrives

During several weeks of expectancy there is a splendid external embrocation in our "Mother's Friend" in which thousands of women have the most unbounded confidence. They have used it and know. They tell of its wonderful influence to ease the abdominal muscles and how they avoided those dreaded stretching pains that are so much talked about. This external application to gently used over the skin to render it amenable to the natural stretching which it undergoes. A myriad of nerve threads just beneath the skin is thus relieved of unnecessary pain-producing tension and great physical relief is the result as expressed by a host of happy mothers who write from experience.

It is a scientific fact all women should be familiar with as "Mother's Friend" has been in use many years, and is recommended by grandmothers who in their earlier days learned to rely upon this splendid aid to women.

You can obtain "Mother's Friend" at almost any drug store. Get a bottle to-day and then write for our little book so useful to expectant mothers.

Sick Women Attention

Is it possible there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, which proves beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other one medicine in the world?

We have published in the newspapers of the United States more genuine testimonial letters than have ever been published in the interest of any other medicine for women—and every year we publish many new testimonials, all genuine and true. Here are three never before published:

From Mrs. S. T. Richmond, Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—"For the benefit of women who suffer as I have done I wish to state what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I did some heavy lifting and the doctor said it caused a displacement. I have always been weak and I overworked after my baby was born and inflammation set in, then nervous prostration, from which I did not recover until I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The Compound is my best friend and when I hear of a woman with troubles like mine I try to induce her to take your medicine."—Mrs. S. T. Richmond, 84 Progress Avenue, Providence, R.I

From Mrs. Maria Irwin, Peru, N.Y.

PERU, N.Y.—"Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was very irregular and had much pain. I had lost three children, and felt worn out all the time. This splendid medicine helped me as nothing else had done, and I am thankful every day that I took it."—Mrs. Maria Irwin, R.F.D. 1, Peru, N.Y.

From Mrs. Jane D. Duncan, W. Quincy, Mass.

SOUTH QUINCY, MASS.—"The doctor said that I had organic trouble and he doctored me for a long time and I did not get any relief. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and I tried it and found relief before I had finished the first bottle. I continued taking it all through middle life and am now a strong, healthy woman and earn my own living."—Mrs. Jane D. Duncan, Forest Avenue, West Quincy, Mass.

how the city shall be run. All we want is for men to think.

"Regarding the charge that we are trying to butt in and run the police department, I would like to say that in the whole two years of this movement I have had not more than ten conversations with Chief Beavers, and they were very brief. I have in that time presumed to make only four suggestions to him as follows:

"First, that if anything goes wrong in the Empire hotel I want him to pull it before anything else.

"Second, the casual suggestion that he is under authority of the police board and that all orders not specifically in violation of law should be followed out by him.

"Third, that he permit himself no criticism of his superiors.

Dr. Jacob L. White to Enter Controversy Sunday

Declaring that the office of minister of a congregation carries with it responsibility for the secret sins of the members as well as trainings of their consciences, Dr. Jacob L. White, pastor of the Baptist tabernacle, announced Friday morning that his sermon Sunday night will deal with the critics of Chief Beavers, the Men and Religion Forward Movement and the Chapman-Alexander revival.

His subject will be, "The Christian Attitude Toward Our Police Chief, the Chapman Revival and the Men and Religion Forward Movement."

Dr. White declares that he will show the immediate need of the Christian alignment in behalf of righteousness. His sermon will be a reply to Dr. Atkinson's address on "Good and Bad Advertising," at the Ad Men's luncheon Thursday.

Dean Atkinson Hits Reform Methods in Stirring Speech

Addressing the Atlanta Ad Men at their semi-monthly luncheon at the Ansley hotel Thursday, Dr. John R. Atkinson, dean of St. Philip's cathedral, severely criticised the attacks on Mayor Woodward in the Men and Religion bulletins, questioned the methods employed by the Chapman-Alexander revival, advocated a year-round theater, urged the establishment of a municipal dance hall, and good naturedly replied to a recent newspaper article by Bishop W. A. Candler in which some of his pulpit utterances were commented on.

"In everything there is a best," said Dr. Atkinson. "The best thing in our hearts is our religion. And every man has a religion, you may believe that. Let your ministers speak to you about your best things. Don't let them pry into your private affairs, trying to find out whether you belong to a locker club. It is none of your minister's business whether you belong to a club. The business of the ministers is to train your consciences. A good thing to be said to ministers occasionally, as to other people, is 'Mind your own business.'

"In speaking of our ministers I am going to speak kindly and firmly and fairly, not because I have an idea I am the only man in the city with nerve enough to say it, but because I think what I will say ought to be said.

"I hate to see the best thing in the world wrongly put forward. It hurts me to read the big sign in red letters in front of the revival tabernacle, 'Get Right With God.' I hate to see men and women, their fears and emotions worked upon by sermons on death and hell, hitting 'the sawdust trail,' or the gold dust trail (whichever they call it.) I would like to see them with shining eyes and uplifted faces offering the best they have to God, instead of sniffing and crying around the altar 'under conviction of sin.'

"I hate to see our mayor attacked in the advertisements of the Men and Religion Executive Committee. I think there is a more manly way of dealing with a public official. Mayor Woodward was one of the first men I met on coming here. He told me he was trying to give the city a clean-cut, business like administration, and I believed him. I love to believe in men. I conceived a great respect for him.

"I have been on the streets of Atlanta at all hours of the day and night, and I have been in some of your supposedly tough sections. During my stay here I have seen only one drunk man on the streets, have never seen a disorderly woman, and have never witnessed any other disorder. I have been profoundly impressed by the orderly, quiet, dignified behavior of the people of Atlanta. I consider it the most orderly city I have ever seen.

NO WORSE ADVERTISING.

"What do the good men of the Men and Religion executive committee want? Aren't they satisfied with the way Atlanta people behave themselves?

"If I were the mayor of Atlanta, and were being attacked as he is, I know what I would do. I would take out a criminal libel against the men making the attacks.

"Why, they scold the mayor, not for something he has done, but for something they say they suspect he is going to do. That is a thing a man wouldn't submit to his wife doing.

"There could be no worse advertising of Atlanta to the country. Atlanta papers are read all over America. The Men and Religion bulletins are enough to give an outsider the impression that Atlanta is an abominable place to live in.

"You men have the power to stop this, if you would only exercise your power. Go to your ministers and tell them either to prove their charges against the mayor and remove him from office, or quit telling lies on him.

TOO MANY CHURCHES.

"There are 250 churches in Atlanta. That is too many. Certainly it must be too many if the churches have to import a revival outfit to find the sin in our midst.

"What I would like to see is a year-round theater, giving good, clean, wholesome plays to the people every week. A church or a religion that doesn't recognize the need of play is on the wrong track. The people are outgrowing a religion that forbids them to enjoy themselves. They are outgrowing the minister who goes around with an expression on his face like an undertaker at a funeral. They are tired of being everlastingly reminded of death. Such religion, such ministers, such preaching miss the whole spirit and meaning of life. If religion means anything at all, if ot does people any good whatever, it means gladness, it gives people joy.

"Another thing you need is a public dance hall. Mr. Mayor (who was present, seated beside Mr. Atkinson) I commend to you. Let the city build one and operate it. Let the good men and women of Atlanta chaperone the young people. Instead of letting the young people go to hell first and then trying to save them, let's save them before they go to hell. I would rather have one former ina community than a thousand reformers. The boys and girls are going to know each other, you may be sure of that. Shall we teach them to know each other in the right way—In the glorious, wholesome way of pure-minded, glad-hearted youth—or shall we let them drift into knowing each other in the wrong way?

"What do you care whether Bishop Candler approves of dancing or not? What does it matter whether your minister sanctions a public dance hall properly chaperoned and regulated? Does your own judgment, does your own heart, does your own conscience approve it?"

Word had been passed around in advance that Dr. Atkinson would have some interesting things to say, and the meeting was larrely attended. Dr. Atkinson spoke, by way of preliminary, of some great men of ancient and modern times who have been great advertisers, and in this connection thanked Bishop Candler for advertising him, "a ne wminister whose work was little known," by his article criticising some of Dr. Atkinson's views and plans. The address was received with the closest attention and was frequently interrupted by loud applause.

ATHENS MAN MAY GET POSITION IN CAPITAL

Frank M. Bell Considered for Register of Deeds

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—President Wilson is considering the appointment of Frank M. Bell, of Athens, as registrar of deeds for the District of Columbia. His name has been presented by Congressman Tribble. Mr. Bell is a brother of Congressman Thomas M. Bell of the Ninth district.

MR. ALLEN M. JACKSON DIED FRIDAY MORNING

Mr. Allen M. Jackson, who had lived in Atlanta since 1854, when the city was a village, died early Friday morning at his home, 399 Fraser street, at the age of seventy-nine years.

Mr. Jackson for many years was connected with Lynch, the tailor, and was widely known in the community. He lived a loyal and useful life, and his death is mourned by many friends.

Surviving him are his wife and three children, as follows: Miss Mamie L. Jackson, T. B. Jackson and E. C. Jackson. One sister, Miss Kate Jackson, also survives him.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

WISE SISTERS ARE WISER THAN POLICE WISEACRES

Pair Wanted in $1,500 Gem Swindle Are Still Breathing Air of Freedom

The sisters Wise have again outwitted the wiseacres of the Atlanta police force, for just as the sleuths thought they had got wise to them, they are wised up to the fact that the sisters they are wise to are the wrong Wise sisters.

All of which listens very complicated unless you read the "whys" of the story as follows:

Three years ago the Durham jewelry company, 20 Edgewood avenue, was swindled out of $1,500 in gems. Two girls, known as Loraine Belmont and Alice Smith, but said by detectives to be Loraine and Alice Wise, were accused of the theft. But skipped before they were arrested.

E. B. Durham, president of the company, spent much money looking for the pair, and about a year and a half ago, he thought he had 'em. Two Wise girls were arrested, but upon investigation they proved to be the youngers sisters of Loraine and Alice.

More money was spent, but the search seemed to be vain, until last week, when Mr. Durham's brother saw two Wise girls in Savannah. He wired E. B Durham, and the latter had City Policeman Sam Webb, who knows all four of the sisters Wise, go to Savannah to identify the couple held there.

This is the telegram Mr. Durham received from Officer Webb, in Savannah, Friday: "We have the wrong Wise sisters again. They are the young ones."

CLASS P CARLOAD FREIGHT RATES HAVE BEEN REVISED

Commission Announces Decision on Petition of Short-Line Railroads

Acting on the petition of the short-line railroads in Georgia the state railroad commission Friday handed down an elaborate report and decision in which it announces a complete revision of Class P carload freight rates.

Class P now includes a largely increased number of commodities, the principal of which are barrels, barrel and box material, brick, lumber, cross ties, lime, gravel, clay, sand, cotton seed hulls, lathe, shingles, ores, manure, poles, posts, pipe and tile, drain or roofing; stone, stone, granite and marble, blocks and slabs, paving, rough, rubble, wood, etc.

Some increases in rates for short distances are allowed and some decreases are made in the rates for long hauls. The report and opinion fills a pamphlet of eighteen printed pages.

COMMISSION'S STATEMENT.

"The commission held a public hearing on this petition last October which extended through two days, and has since conducted one of the most thorough investigations ever made by it, involving the collection of a mass of statistics as to Class P traffic, its volume, distances moved, cost of service, revenue from existing rates, the number of cars of each commodity handled by each railroad during stated periods, etc.

"As a result of the investigation, the commission has made a complete revision of its Class P carload rates, minimum weights, etc.

"Under the revision made, there are increases for some of the short distances of 25 cents to $1 per car; for one distance an increase of $1.50 per car. For nearly all distances between 200 and 450 miles, the rates were reduced from $5 cents to $4 per car. In some cases where rate increases were allowed, the carload weights were increased, so that the rate per 100 pounds, in these instances, remains the same.

"The commission's order provides that it shall not apply on commodities moving under outstanding bona fide contracts in writing for sale and shipment entered into prior to its publication."

CONTRACT TO BE LET FOR PORTABLE CAMPS

After a session lasting all Thursday afternoon at which representatives of the competing portable camp manufacturers were present the public works committee of the county commissioners instructed F. B. Eves, construction engineer, and W. T. Wilson, county engineer, to draw up final specifications for the four portable convict camps to be purchased by the county.

These specifications will be submitted to the bidders and the contract will be awarded at the March meeting of the commissioners Wednesday.

An innovation which seemed to please the committee was suggested by the Manly Jail Works, of Dalton, Ga., one of the bidders for the contract. This consists of a large tent, costing $100, which would cover two of the portable wagons or "prison cages" entirely, thus keeping the men very comfortable for sleeping in cold weather.

TWO GEORGIANS HONORED AT EDUCATORS' MEETING

Two Georgia men were honored at the convention of the department of superintendence of the National Educational association, in Cincinnati this week.

Lawton B. Evans, superintendent of the Richmond county schools, was elected first vice president of the department, and M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools was elected a member of the committee which is to have charge of the arrangements for the big convention of the association at San Francisco next August.

Mr. Brittain who accompanied a large party of prominent Georgia educators to Cincinnati returned Friday. He said the meeting was a big success and was attended by about 3,000 school superintendents.

DAMAGE SUITS FILED AGAINST E. DITTLER

For alleged injuries received when the automobile of Emil Dittler collided with a hose wagon at Georgia avenue and Washington streets the night of February 7, Eugene R. Flunker, driver of the wagon, brought suit for $10,000 damages against Dittler in the city court Friday.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Berta Lowe, widow of Charles A. Lowe, filed suit in the city court against Dittler for $50,000 damages for the death of her husband, who, it is alleged, died from injuries received in the same accident.

GEORGIAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN IN PANAMA

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—A cablegram from Governor Goethals, at Panama, today informed Congressman Adamson that Chester F. Bowman, of Harris, Meriwether county, was killed by a locomotive at Balboa yesterday. The congressman immediately wired R. D. Bowman, father of the deceased at Harris.

The message to Congressman Adamson stated that the body and the members of Bowman's family would be sent home.

Bowman was a conductor on the Panama railroad, a position he obtained through the influence of Judge Adamson.

REDISTRICTING BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—The senate passed a bill last night placing Barrow county in the eastern division of the northern district of Georgia; Candler, Evans and Jenkins counties in the eastern division of the southern district; Thomas and Bacon counties in the southwestern division of the southern district. This bill has passed the house already.

REDUCTION IN THE PRICE OF BREAD IS EXPECTED

Probe in New York Will End If Cost Is Reduced, It Is Announced

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—A return to the wholesale price of 4 cents a loaf for bread, which reports say the big baking companies are contemplating, will, Deputy Attorney General Becker indicated today, result in a discontinuance of the inquiry he is conducting here into causes for the increased price of wheat, flour and bread.

Mr. Becker, commenting on the report that big baking companies were considering a return to the wholesale price of 4 cents, said he "hoped the price would soon be reduced" and he added that if such a step was taken he would feel the purpose of the state's inquiry was accomplished.

"The object of the anti-trust law is to preserve free competition," Mr. Becker said. "If this investigation or any other force prevent the restraint of competition and the result is that competition forces the price back where it was, the public will receive the benefit. The situation which has been created with hundreds of small concerns underselling the big ones, has provided the best example we have had in a long time of what competition can accomplish."

The hearings before the referee will be resumed today when Joseph Leiter, once prominent as an operator in the wheat market, will testify.

GERMAN'S FOOD POLICY INDORSED BY SOCIALISTS

Steps to Conserve Supply Approved at 24 Mass Meetings in Berlin

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(Via London.)—Approval of measures taken by the government to conserve the food supply was expressed at twenty-four Socialist mass meetings last night in Greater Berlin. Reduction of the maximum potato price was demanded, however. Police who attended the meetings forbade the reading of uniform resolutions which had been prepared.

FIGHTING AROUND VERDUN IS OFFICIALLY DESCRIBED

German Efforts to Invest Town Both Costly and Useless, Statement Says

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 26.—Operations during February in the vicinity of Verdun are described in an official review given out today.

"The investment of Verdun always has been one of the objects of the German general staff," says the statement, "and the measures they have taken to this end have been both costly and useless. The German offensive movement to the southeast of the entrenched camp of the Meuse was checked at St. Mihiel and the enemy could not advance against the eastern defenses of this locality.

"Along the heights of the Meuse the line of battle has remained unchanged for several months past. When the Germans moved forward they were successful in gaining a foothold northeast of St. Mihiel. They occupied Vigneulles and Hattonchatel and the forest of Montagne. Further north, however, they could not maintain their former gains and later French troops occupied the northern extremity of the heights of the Meuse.

"At the villages of Dessaparges, in a valley of the Meuse, the enemy had taken a strong position, but we were successful in driving them from it in spite of their fierce defense."

Continuing, the recital says, the attacks on Dessaparges were begun by sapping operations. This was followed by explosion of mines, and excavations thus made were used by the French soldiers as points of protection while they waited for the artillery to open the way.

The fighting was marked by hand to hand engagements of great violence. In one trench alone the Germans left 200 dead. Attacks and counter attacks continued with rapidity. The fighting finally came to an end February 21 with a French victory. The losses of the enemy are estimated at 3,000, or one-half of their total strength engaged.

Rain and Snow Hinders Operations of Infantry

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Another semi-weekly communication from the front, given out today, says:

"The period since the last communique has been marked by a thick mist and rain which culminated on the 24th in a heavy snowstorm. Operations consequently have been hindered. In spite of bad weather, however, our air craft carried out their duties. Co-operation between aviators and the artillery has been particularly close.

"Near Ypres intermittent fighting continued along the canal, without change in the relative positions of the opposing forces. Many gallant acts have been performed during the recent fighting in this neighborhood. A sergeant and a man held a communication trench for a considerable period unaided and shot down all Germans who attempted to advance.

"Our machine guns handled particularly well one occasion when they came into action in the open and inflicted a considerable loss on the enemy.

"Along the remainder of our front the enemy's artillery fire at times has been somewhat heavy. No infantry attacks by either side have occurred."

Smoot Wants Fifty Seagoing Submarines For the U. S. Navy

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Abolition of the navy plucking board, as provided in the naval bill by the house was approved today by the senate.

Senator Smoot precipitated a short war debate by offering an amendment for fifty seagoing submarines and twenty-five for coast defense.

ENLISTED MEN'S RECORD PLEASES NAVY OFFICIALS

Desertions in Atlantic Battleship Fleet in December Were Only 74

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Desertions among the enlisted men of the Atlantic battleship fleet during the last December totaled only seventy-four, the commander-in-chief of the fleet has just reported to the navy department. Department officials are highly gratified over the record.

A large number of vessels, including several battleships, had no desertions. The active destroyer flotilla and the reserve torpedo flotilla had but one desertion in each, the submarine craft, including those at Panama, had none. During the month leave or liberty was granted on 184,336 occasions, and in but 1,164 instances was the liberty or leave overstayed.

GERMANY ORDERS 500 CHINESE TO GET OUT

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 26.—An evening news dispatch from Rotterdam says that owing to shortage of food Germany has ordered expulsion of 500 Chinese. A strong Netherlands police force has been sent to the frontier to prevent these men entering Dutch territory, and complications are expected, the correspondent declares.

GERMANS START MIGHTY ADVANCE UPON WARSAW

Russian Officers Think Movement Now Is More Powerful Than Any Yet Made

(By Associated Press.)

PETROGRAD, Feb. 26.—(Via London.)—Russian staff officers, commenting on recent developments in Poland, agree that from Prasasnsz and Novgorod the Germans hope to develop a movement on Warsaw. This movement is being assisted, in their opinion, by recommencement of an energetic offensive in the vicinity of Moghely.

Against this powerful German advance, which evidently has assumed larger proportions than any previous movement in Poland, the Russians have three strong lines of defense. The first runs from Kovno to Olita, on the Niemen. The second runs from Olita to Grodno. The third is known as the Bobr-Narew line.

The German advance against these lines is proceeding slowly on account of the marshy country.

There have been attacks in the neighborhood of Stabine, conducted with great energy and daring. This fighting virtually has been uninterrupted, and invariably has seen bayonet engagements, in which the Russians have become very skillful.

There apparently has been increased activity in eastern Galicia, where the Germans have been checked in their efforts to reach Halicsz on the Dniester.

German commanding officers are said to be declaring to their men that the Russians will continue retreating; that the Austrian occupation of Galicia has not been interrupted, and that peace soon will follow success of the German arms.

Strong Russian Force North of the Rawka

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(By Wireless).—The military critic of the Morgen Post again points out today that a strong Russian force apparently still is north of the Rawka and around Boltmow, and that it is evident these troops have no present intention of abandoning their positions and retiring behind the Vistula.

THIRD WOMAN MURDERED IN YEAR IN AURORA, ILL.

Forty-Two Persons Held After Girl Is Found Beaten to Death on Street

(By Associated Press.)

AURORA, Ill., Feb. 26.—Forty-two suspects are being held by police in connection with the murder of Miss Emma Peterson, twenty-one years old, clubbed to death on the street here last night. Two other women have been killed here mysteriously in a similar manner within the last year.

An old woolen glove and a piece of gas pipe were found near the place where Miss Peterson was killed. Her handbag, opened and rifled, was found a block and a half away. The glove will be given to bloodhounds for a scent.

As in the murder of Miss Jennie Miller, slain some months ago with a pipe wrench, "a great tall man wearing a long overcoat" is being sought. A man answering that description stood over the body of Miss Peterson, stooped to pick up something, and then fled, according to a statement to police by Miss Eliza Calkins, who lives close to the scene of the crime. She was brought to her window by a scream, she said.

John Mason, an eccentric old man who lives near the scene of the killing, is among those detained, but police now believe he is innocent. Twenty-five of those held are negroes.

and to Bispham's astonishment, Kipling left the room before the song was finished. The occurence disturbed the famous baritone considerably as he could not account for what seemed like a deliberate insult on Kipling's part. A few days later, however, the poet called and explained himself: "I had to leave the room. I was so upset I could not trust myself to speak. Your interpretation made a profound impression upon me."

This story is not difficult to accept as true, once you have heard Bispham's Columbia Record of the song. Damrosch has given the poem an intensely dramatic setting and Bispham has availed himself of the dramatic opportunities with immense skill. What horror is in his voice when he sings the lines, "What's that so black agin' the sun?" said Files on Parade. It's Danny, fightin' 'and for life,' the color sergeant said." You can almost see the troops in their scarlet coats, watching their guilty comrade with a gaze of horror, as he swings at the gallows.

"Thirty-eight of the crew disappeared. The accident did not hinder finishing the work of provisioning and the return of the convoy."

"The French cruiser Desaix made a demonstration against Akabah (Arabia) on February 23. A landing party, aided by the ship's cannon dispersed and put to flight a small band of Turks occupying the village."

The Dague was 256 feet long and had a displacement of 720 tons. She was built in 1911 and was rated at a speed of 33.1 knots. Her complement was eighty-one men. She was armed with two 3.9-inch guns, four 9-pounders and four 18-inch torpedo tubes.

Again Austria Is Claiming Rout to Enemy in Bukowina

(By Associated Press.)

COLOGNE, via London, Feb. 26.—After several days of artillery fighting, and in spite of great numerical superiority, the Russians were driven from Bojan (Bukowina) which they had strongly fortified, according to a Bucharest dispatch to the Cologne Gazette. Their retreat did not end until they had reached a point twelve and a half miles north of the Pruth river.

With this reverse, the correspondent says, the final Russian opposition in Bukowina is shattered and the province cleared of invaders.

Austrians Defeated by Small Army of Montenegrin Troops

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 26.—A Montenegrin column operating in Bosnia was attacked Wednesday by a superior Austrian force, says a Cettinje dispatch to the Havas agency. After a violent action on the banks of the Drina, which lasted several hours, the Austrians are reported to have been repulsed with considerable losses.

Turks Again Claim Damage To Three Allied Warships

(By Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 26.—(Via London.)—Three warships of the allies were damaged in the bombardment of the Dardanelles fort February 25, according to announcement today at Turkish army headquarters here.

The text of the announcement follows:

"Ten big armored vessels on February 25 again bombarded the Turkish forts at the Dardanelles for 7 1-2 hours. At the conclusion of this operation they retired in the directing of the island of Lemnos.

"One ship of the Agamemnon type and two other armored vessels were damaged by the fire from the forts on the Asiatic side of the straits."

It was announced from London last night that all the forts at the entrance of the Dardanelles had been reduced by a continued British and French fleet, estimated at something over thirty vessels.

The English announcement made no mention of losses. It described the operations as successful and said they were continuing.

Efforts to force the Dardanelles, the key to Constantinople, have been in progress since the middle of December. Once in possession of this waterway, which is 45 miles long and from one to three miles wide, the warships of the allies would not encounter any serious difficulty in making their way to Constantinople and training their guns on the Turkish capital. Turkey always has relied on the Dardanelles fortifications for protection from attack from sea.

It has been declared that with Constantinople in possession of the allies, a vast amount of Ruslan wheat would come out from the Black sea and be distributed to ports in France and England. Possession of Constantinople also would have the effect of driving Turkish naval forces into the Black sea, where they could be without port of refuge.

While the efforts to force the Dardanelles have been going on for over sixty days, the immediate operations began about a week ago. Aeroplanes are said to have rendered material assistance.

The Agamemnon type of British battleships is of 16,500 tons displacement and 425 feet long, with a main battery of four 12-inch guns.

Allies Prepare for Another German Lunge Against West

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 26.—The impression is gaining ground among British and French military critics that Germany is preparing for a fresh expenditure of energy in the land campaign in the west. Notwithstanding recent German successes in the east, the resiliency and recuperating powers of the Russian armies seem to have convinced the German general staff that it is wisest to adopt the defensive in the Russian campaign while delivering another blow in the west.

If this rush comes, the allies will be well prepared to meet it. During the last few months a decided change for the better has taken place in the forces of the allies with reinforcements, bigger guns and more complete equipment, lack of which was keenly felt during the early stages of the war.

As against the expectation of a new German general offensive in the west another theory is advanced in some quarters that the German attack in the east will be continued with the main idea of taking Warsaw from the north. Prasnysz, fifty miles north of Warsaw, now being in the hands of the Germans, according to their claims, it is probable a battle is now raging along the river Orzyc.

The Turks again are appearing in the war news by virtue of the renewed fighting in the Caucasus. Meantime the allied fleet has at last demolished the forts at the entrance to the Dardanelles, in what is believed to be preliminary to a determined attempt to force the historic strait. That would have important strategic, political and economic effects.

Wireless reports that the American steamship Dacia plans to go northward around Scotland on the way to Hamburg revives speculation as to when and where she will be seized by the British.

Belgians Recapture Trenches From the German Line

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(Via London).—The war office today issued the communication:

"The Belgian army has retaken a small portion of the trenches which it had lost temporarily.

"The British army repulsed in Belgium a German attack and also gained 100 metres on La Bassee road.

"German artillery displayed considerable activity in the Aisne valley. Our batteries reduced it to silence in the afternoon.

"In Champagne our progress continues. We won some ground in the wood northwest of Perthes and north of Mesnil-les-Hurlus. The engagement continues in the valley of the Meuse. At Jumelles-dorns we destroyed some machine gun shelters and wrecked the trenches of the enemy.

"We made fresh progress in Bois Brule in the forest of Apremont. The Germans were driven from several communication passages between trenches. They were subjected to heavy losses, abandoning on the field numerous accoutrement and weapons."

CARRANZA IS SILENT ABOUT NOTE OF U. S.

Representations as to Heavy Tax on Foreigners Not Answered

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—No reply had been received today from Carranza to the representations the United States has made against General Obregon's decree levying a heavy tax on foreigners and their properties in Mexico City. Protests have been made to the state department by the British and Spanish ambassadors.

The Carranza agency here today received this telegram from Laredo:

The Villa agency announced General Maytorena had been ordered not to occupy nor menace Naco. His troops were reported in that vicinity.

LIFEBOAT OF AMERICAN SCHOONER FOUND AT SEA

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The American consul general at Copenhagen today cabled that the Swedish ship Vala, on arriving there, reported picking up in mid-ocean an empty lifeboat of the American schooner Theodora Palmer. The Palmer's home port is New London, Conn. She is a small ship.

200,000 Men Locked in Fierce Hand to Hand Fight

GENEVA, Feb. 26.—(Via Paris.)—The fighting in the Carpathians is becoming rapidly much like siege warfare, according to dispatches reaching here.

Since February 18 these advices say over 200,000 men have been fighting hand to hand in the Carpathian trenches without making any material advance. The wounded are pouring into Ungvar and Eperies, in Hungary.

During the night of Friday, February 19, taking advantage of a lull in hostilities, the Austrians picked up at Svidnik 8,000 wounded and over 3,000 dead. The wounded had been lying on the ground, some of them for eighteen hours without food or succor. A chief officer of the Austrian medical department is authority for the estimate that 70 per cent of them will be invalids for life.

A majority of the wounded at Svidnik were injured in the head by blows from rifle butts, and 20 per cent of them will be partially or totally blind.

TUBERCULOSIS CATECHISM OPPOSED IN CITY SCHOOLS

Children Will Not Be Made to Read Them Unless Parents Give Consent

A petition signed by 160 persons objecting to the distribution in the public schools of a "Catechism on Tuberculosis," published by the Anti-Tuberculosis association, was presented to the board of education Thursday.

The objection is based on the argument that a child should not be taught the "horrors" of a disease because the fear instilled in its mind by such teaching will have a decidedly harmful effect.

"We have no objection to the study of methods of preserving health," the petitioners said, "but we do oppose a study of disease."

The petition was presented by Mrs. Joseph L. Cox, 128 East Eleventh street, and Mrs. M. L. Cushman, 372 Juniper street. Mrs. Cushman was formerly a school teacher and she told the board she was forced to instruct the children of her class about tuberculosis, and she had formed the definite and final conclusion from the effect on those children that the teaching was harmful.

George Eubanks, a member of the board, declared he favored a general distribution of the pamphlet and thought every child should be forced to study it.

However, the board adopted a resolution instructing the superintendent not to have the "catechism" distributed where the parents of the child objected.

The previous order of the board had been that each child be furnished with the pamphlet.

GORDON LEE WOULD CALL COOSA RIVER THE ALABAMA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., Feb. 26.—From Washington comes the interesting news that Congressman Gordon Lee favors the changing of the name of the Coosa river to the Alabama. The Coosa is a tributary of the Alabama, and the congressman believes that the Coosa, being smaller and less important, suffers in appropriations for permanent improvements.

Heretofore, for sentimental reasons, the people of Rome and that section of Georgia through which the river flows, have been somewhat opposed to the change in name, which is favored by the people of Alabama. However, the recommendation of Congressman Lee will doubtless bear weight with them.

Afternoon and Evening Dresses

That Remain from the Winter Stocks

Let the facts as they are be your inducement to attend this closing event of the winter season. There remain twenty-nine dresses, some for afternoon, some for evening wear. WE SHALL DISPOSE OF THEM TOMORROW---because we've made prices that must appeal to a woman's sense of economy---prices that make every dress a genuine Chamberlin Johnson-DuBose Co. BARGAIN.

Here---

14 Dresses that were $37.50 to $68.50 are $12.50

Three evening dresses, eleven afternoon dresses—the latter are black charmeuse, velvet, net and lace affairs of rich beauty; that they were $37.50 to $68.50 tells their real charm.

7 Dresses were $18.75 to $35.00 $6.95

8 Dresses were $13.75 to $19.50 $3.75

The majority of these are white, now and then a pink, maize or Nile green; chiffon, taffeta, net and lace—a little mussed, perhaps, but not beyond the redemption of a smart woman—charming styles, every one different from the others.

A World of New Fashions for the Young Folk

In the Junior Department---Third Floor

It is READY with the spring things for the young folk---so splendidly ready that it is just bound to be of interest to every mother, to every young woman.

We invite you to come and enjoy the new fashions we've gathered---suits, coats, dresses, hats. The display takes on the nature of an exhibition, so complete is it with novel out-of-the-ordinary styles.

Take for instance---

The New Hats

It really takes on the importance of a pre-Easter display.

For it seems that we've about every smart style that could be imagined for the tots, the girls and the young women.

For the girls and young women come hats of distinctive and charming style, of varied styles, calculated to be becoming to the various young faces they will frame. There are hats with silk crowns, plain and hand embroidered; there are white Panama hats, and there are Milan straws in white and colors; there are sailors with wide brims; there are chic Tipperary shapes; there are the small pull-down shapes—these with every manner of flower and ribbon trimming and in every color—there are the dress hats of chiffon and lingerie.

And all priced so easily! At $1.25, $2.00, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 upwards to $15.00.

Girls' Dresses Priced

A few linen and lingerie dresses in sizes six to fourteen years are priced. All white, a bit mussed, not every size of each style, but every size here.

Were $3.00, $4.50, $6.00 to $8.50.
At $2.00, $3.00, $3.95 to $5.33.

Boys' $1 to $1.50 Suits 69c

Little "French" Dresses that just came in deserve special mention, so fresh and crisp and lovely are they.

In sizes one to six years; they are, we believe, prettier than we have ever shown at their prices, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 up to $5.00.

They are made of lawns, of dimities and the like—all white save for a rosette here and there and the ribbons run in beadings at the low waist and in sleeves and neck.

Girls' Wash Dresses

In sizes six to fourteen years and in intermediate sizes.

The collection is unusually large and attractive, even for the first bloom of spring, when every young woman must have new wash dresses for school and afternoons.

Dresses that show little coat effects, tiered skirts, skirts made on yokes, guimpe styles. These are developed in thoroughly dependable linens, linenes, ginghams, piques and the like. Priced at $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 upwards to $12.50.

But it's not always easy to smile when wearing a "pretty shoe." Comfort is quite as important as prettiness.

Children's SOROSIS SHOES are as practical as they are pretty.

If you permit our experts to apply their knowledge and experience in choosing the shoes for your children they will be properly fitted. This method will relieve you of all responsibility and may save your children's feet from all the ills they are heir to.

And now that new spring styles have come in, it is the most appropriate time to make the children ready for the coming season.

DR. CHAPMAN ASKS POWER TO BREAK HUMAN HEARTS

Repentance, Not Mere Sorrow, Is What Is Needed, He Says

"My sermon this evening is not a tirade, it is not taken up with denunciations. I speak to you with all tenderness—with all the tenderness which my soul possesses. I have prayed by the power that God will teach me to speak so as to break your hearts," was the keynote of Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman's sermon Thursday night.

The sermon was quietly and restrainedly spoken, marked by the absence of the many striking gestures usually used by the evangelist. Only once did he strik upon his left knee, with his left hand, clasping a small Bible, outstretched in a pointing gesture at the congregation—a characteristic movement familiar to those who have attended services at the Peachtree tabernacle.

Only once did he raise himself upon tip-toe, stretching above him toward heaven a Bible in his right hand; this was in quoting the words of Jesus:

"I, even I am He that blotteth out thy transgressions and will not remember thy sins!"

Then, bending forward, in a voice which seemed low, but which carried to the last row of the great wooden structure, Dr. Chapman spoke the words which have run like a connecting text through all of his sermons, the words which promise forgiveness of sins:

"Though your sins are scarlet, though they be red like crimson, though they be like the sands of the sea in number, and you acknowledge them to Him, He'll forgive you."

TABERNACLE FILLED.

Following the sermon of Wednesday night upon "Your Sins," Dr. Chapman spoke Thursday night upon "What Do You Do With Your Sins?" Four thousand people crowded into the tabernacle; out of these, nearly a hundred walked up after the service and gave themselves to God.

Never, during the twelve days of the revival, did the congregation and choir sing as they did Thursday night. Charles M. Alexander led and swayed the people like a man inspired; standing high on the little platform above the wooden pulpit, his commanding, frock-coated figure moved with the rhythm of the music; his hands, his voice, even his feet, which he stamped at times, all united to bring out the songs.

"Sing it! Sing it!" he would say, and over four thousand throats did their best to obey his command.

One song, written by Dr. Chapman himself, entitled "Hail, All Hail!" was taught to both the choir and congregation in less than three minutes by Mr. Alexander. Under the magnetism of his leadership, the inspiring words and ringing music rocked the building.

"Hail, all hail! Sing Hallelujahs to Jesus!

"Hail, all hail! He is our coming King!"

"Sing it!" commanded Mr. Alexander, swaying and smiling. "Sing it! I want the song to fill the building and burst out of the windows, 'until it rings through the streets. Sing it! I imagine that some great man is walking down the stret, and you are crowding out to meet him. Sing it! He is our coming King. Yes, He is coming, and He will be King of all when He comes. Sing it!"

STRIKING ILLUSTRATION.

"He shall be holden with the cords of love," was Dr. Chapman's text, and, in striking illustration, he said:

"All sins start as little things, things that thrill and fascinate at first. But they grow in power. I might tie a piece of thread around my chest; by simply breathing, I can break it; another thread —both are easily broken; a dozen threads—simply a swelling of the muscles, and they break. But the smallest child in this building could go around and around me with a single thread until I would be held here a prisoner. That's sin.

"Everybody is sorry for their sin. I never say anyone who wasn't sorry, very sorry, for their transgression. That doesn't mean anything. I remember a young business man whom I held in my arms writhing in delirium tremens. Above him stood his wife, and she would cry, again and again, in moments of consciousness: 'Lucy, Lucy, I send down, Lucy—I'm so sorry, Lucy, I'm so sorry.' Weeks later, I received a letter from his mother, saying that 'poor Charlie died last night. He died sorry and still drunk.'

"Repentance, not sorrow, is what is needed—and repentance is being so sorry for your sin that with God's help you give it up."

CORPORATION DIVIDENDS SUBJECT TO INCOME TAX

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Cash dividends paid by corporations after March 1, 1913, constitute taxable income when received and should be included in the income tax returns of individuals whose total income is more than $20,000, according to a ruling today by Commissioner Osborn. Stock dividends declared in good faith and not to evade the income tax law are held not to be subject to the tax.

IN A RAILWAY CAR.

At Edinburgh a fine looking commercial man came to me, and holding up a little card with "Get Right With God" printed on it, said: "This card is what brought me. I was going out of Edinburgh to do business. I bought my ticket; here it is (and he pulled it out and showed it to me), and got into the car. I went to pull down the curtain at the car window, and out rolled this card, someone had stuck in the roll of the curtain. I had promised my old mother years ago that I would give my heart to Jesus. I was getting worse. I went home tipsy the other night, and I never used to do that. I thought of all this as the train went on. We passed another station and I felt that I could bear it no longer—I must settle the matter now. I got out at the next station, and came back to Edinburgh." He came to the meeting and was saved that night, and now he is working with all his heart for God.

YOUNG WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD; AGED MAN HELD

Victim Is Third Slugged to Death in Aurora, Ill., in 12 Months

(By Associated Press.)

AURORA, Ill., Feb. 26.—A man sixty years old, described as an eccentric, is under arrest here in connection with the murder of Miss Emma Peterson, found last night a half block from her home with her head crushed and jaw broken.

It was the third mysterious murder of a woman in Aurora in twelve months. It each case the victim had been slugged to death. In no case has the murderer been caught.

The man arrested, John Mason, does odd jobs at St. Joseph hospital for his board. He was detained early last night after he attempted to seize a young woman by the arm a block from the spot where Miss Peterson's body was found.

Miss Peterson, who was twenty-two years old, had been living in the home of a wealthy retired farmer for the last three years.

GRADUATION FROM PUBLIC SCHOOLS GAINING RAPIDLY

Number of Pupils Turned Out by Elementary Institutions Doubles in Seven Years

(By Associated Press.)

CINCINNATI, Feb. 26.—In the last seven years the number of children graduating each year from the elementary schools of America had doubled, according to Dr. Leonard P. Ayres, director of the division of education of the Russell Sage foundation, New York City, who addressed the department of superintendence of the National Education association convention today.

Dr. Ayres said the number of elementary school graduates now is three-quarters of a million greater annually than seven years ago. The only organized industry in America that has increased the output of its finished product as rapidly as the public schools during the last seven years, he said, was the automobile industry. He claimed the increase in graduation was due to the nation-wide efforts of schools to reduce backwardness among school children, and to the school survey movement.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SAFETY APPROVED

The report of the committee on public safety of the chamber of commerce was approved by the directors at their meeting Thursday afternoon.

This committee has started a campaign of "safety first" and among others has started an anti-track walking crusade.

GENERAL CHURCH WORK DISCUSSED BY BAPTISTS

Men's Conference One of Most Interesting in Organization's History

Vitalizing agencies in the work of the church were discussed during the last hours of the Baptist men's conference which ended Thursday night at the Baptist Tabernacle after one of the most successful meetings in the organization's history.

With W. W. Gaines presiding at the afternoon session, speakers forcibly presented the need for more power on the part of laymen and clergy, young and old, in prayer meeting, Sunday school, mission and charitable work. Among those speaking were Rev. Gilbert Dobbs, of Commerce, on "The Layman and the Prayer Meeting;" A. W. Evans, of Sandersville, on "The Sunday School and Missions;" F. H. Leavell, secretary of the State Baptist Young People's Union, on "The Union's Work in Georgia;" Dr. W. L. Pickard, president of Mercer university, on "Training the Young Preachers;" F. S. Etheridge, of Jackson, on "The Interests of the Orphans' Homes;" Rev. J. M. Long, superintendent of the Georgia Baptist hospital, on "Caring for the Sick;" Dr. E. C. Dargan, of Macon, on "Our Disabled Veterans."

The duties of the Christian citizen were outlined at the closing session Thursday night. Dr. L. G. Hardaman, of Commerce, presided, and speeches were made by Dr. B. D. Gray, of Atlanta, corresponding secretary of the Home Mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, and W. G. Powell, of Louisville, Ky., secretary of the Kentucky Baptist state mission board.

3 MEN ELECTROCUTED FOR MURDER OF WOMEN

(By Associated Press.)

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 26.—Three men, all from New York City, were electrocuted at Sing Sing today for murdering women. Oscar Vogt stabbed Mme. Agnes Guth, a dressmaker with whom he was infatuated. Vincenzo Campenella, a counterfeiter, shot his wife, because on his return after a prison term he alleged he found her faithless. Robert Kane shot Anna Klein, because, he said, she caused him to lose his wife's affections.

WAR PRODUCES MANY SERIOUS RIOTS IN ITALY

One Killed, Many Hurt in Demonstrations for and Against Neutrality

(By Associated Press.)

GENOA, Feb. 26.—One person was killed and many wounded during riots at Ventimiglia, resulting from a demonstration in favor of the maintenance of Italy's neutrality. A counter demonstration by persons favoring intervention in the war led to a serious fight. Police and carbineers interfered but were unable to restore order for some time. Several of the officers were injured.

ITCHING, BLISTERED SKIN-ERUPTION ALL HIS LIFE, NOW CURED

Nov. 19, 1914:—"All my life, until about a year ago, I was troubled with blisters and sores over my entire body. The itching and burning was terrible, and I could hardly sleep. I used many treatments that were unsuccessful and did not give me any relief. I started using Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and they helped me wonderfully. I WAS RELIEVED AT ONCE, and after about two dozen applications I can say that I was free and cured of that awful disease. My skin now is as clear as anybody's."—(Signed) Geo. Whitcher, Jr., R. F. D. School in Flames Panic Is Averted By Brave Teacher

Miss Anna Campbell, Principal of Lakewood Heights School, Is Congratulated by Superintendent Merry.

While 450 pupils of the Lakewood Heights school, on Sawtell avenue, just outside the city limits, were humming their A B C's or studiously engaged at other tasks, Monday morning fire broke out in the roof and was burning fiercely when a frantic woman living in the neighborhood rushed in and cried fire!

Miss Anna Campbell, principal of the school, happened to be nearest the school bell when the excited person entered. Miss Campbell did not go into hysterics. Instead, she warned her own class to keep quiet, and then reaching for the school gong she gave the signal for a fire drill.

Instantly, the 450 children dropped their slates and books, and formed into line in their classrooms. At another signal they marched out of the burning building and onto the lawn.

There they realized that the fire signal had been given for a sure enough fire, and when their excitement died down they were allowed to seek spots in the neighborhood where they could view the spectacle of the burning roof.

The janitor and a number of the oldest boys of the school climbed to the roof and put the flames out with water and a fire extinguisher.

County Superintendent E. C. Merry was immediately notified of the fire, and when he learned of the heroism of Miss Campbell he personally congratulated her on behalf of himself and for the county board.

Gentlemen:—

In answer to your inquiry will say that the extinguisher used in the Lakewood Heights fire was the Pyrene fire extinguisher. This is the second fire that we have put out by the use of your extinguisher. The first was an over-head fire in which the gases acted instantaneously; but this was a roof fire and the machine was very efficient.

Very truly, yours,
E. C. Merry
County School Superintendent.

The Life of Your Child

Your children spend six hours in school.
They spend the rest of the twenty-four in the home—
Yet school officials provide Pyrene protection for them. They guard their little lives better than you do. Are you not neglecting a sacred duty you owe them? Equip your home with Pyrene protection. You may wake up some day — or night — and find you have waited too late.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

For health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous overworked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores.—(Advt.)

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomachache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—(Advt.)

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back and sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—(Advt.)

FRECKLES

February and March Bring Out Unsightly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

The woman with tender skin dreads February and March because they are likely to cover her face with ugly freckles. No matter how thick her veil, the sun and winds have a strong tendency to make her freckle.

Fortunately for her peace of mind the recent discovery of a new prescription, othine—double strength, makes it possible for even those most susceptible to freckles to keep their skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckles you have, the double strength othine should remove them.

Get an ounce from your druggist and banish the freckles. Money back if it fails.—(Advt.)

WHY DISRAELI MAKES A GREAT STAGE ROLE

George Arliss, Who Plays Odd Character Here Next Week, Describes English Statesman's Personality

ARLISS, AS DISRAELI.

WHY DISRAELI IS A GREAT STAGE CHARACTER.

(By George Arliss, who will present Louis M. Parwer's comedy "Disraeli," founded upon the life and characteristics of the great English statesman at the Atlanta theater on March 3, 4, 5 and 6.)

There are many reasons, it seems to me, why Disraeli may be considered one of the greatest characters for the stage. First of all his methods were theatrical and many points in his political career were gained more by acting, or "bluff," as they say nowadays, than anything else.

Characters with a distinctive personal appearance are good for the stage and Disraeli was certainly unusual in this respect. His physical peculiarities were more broadly caricatured than any other great statesman. He always dressed in a manner which was almost theatrical in its spectacular effects. When he was young he perfumed and arranged his hair in glossy black ringlets, wore rings on his fingers over white gloves, and glittering waistcoats that made him conspicuous among London's most arrant dandies. He often looked like a freak in his younger days, but talked like an oracle.

Later, when Disraeli traveled through Spain and the east, the spectacular fascination of the Orient charmed him. He wrote to Bulwer Lytton: "The life of this people greatly accords with my taste. To repose on voluptuous divans, and smoke superb pipes, daily to lounge in the luxury of a bath which requires half a dozen attendants for its perfection, to court the air in a carved saloon by shores that are a perpetual scene—that I think a more sensible life than the bustle of the clubs and the course vulgarity of our political controversies."

A man possessing the wonderful personality of Disraeli presents a most interesting field for stage characterization. It will be remembered that from the force of this great personality, and his indomitable will and courage, he rose from an unknown author to prime minister and the personal friend of the queen. At that time, for a Jew to fix even parliament for his goal, to say nothing of the premiership, was considered preposterous. So strong was racial prejudice that Disraeli was up for parliament four times before he was elected.

There is one reason why some may not consider Disraeli a great stage character. His domestic life was ideally pure and simple. It has been said that a successful play cannot be founded upon happy domestic conditions. "Disraeli" must then be an exception.

GEORGIA PHYSICIANS GATHER FOR CLINIC

Several Hundred Doctors Here for Meeting of Georgia Surgeons' Club

Several hundred physicians from all over Georgia gathered at the Hotel Ansley Thursday for the third regular clinical meeting of the Georgia Surgeons' Club, which will last through Friday night.

The meeting began at 9 o'clock Thursday morning with clinics at the various hospitals, where Atlanta physicians were in charge. At 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening there was a dinner in the Ansley banquet hall, followed by a short business meeting and a symposium on "Surgical Indigestion" featured by short addresses from members of the club.

SAFETY FIRST BODY WILL MAKE WORK NATION-WIDE

Campaign for Public Safety Will Be Launched in Larger Cities

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Resolutions outlining the policy of the Safety First Federation of America, organized by representatives of automobile clubs, organizations, police and public service officials, were to be adopted and officers elected at the meeting of the new organization today.

It is proposed to start a campaign for public safety, for both vehicular and pedestrian traffic in all states and the federation will ask for the cooperation of all local safety organizations.

A maximum speed of four miles an hour by vehicles at street corners and in every block where there is a public or private school, when the children are going to and from school, will be advocated. Ordinances to make pedestrians use the cross walks at all street inter sections when crossing from one side to the other will be introduced in councils of the cities of the country. Fire prevention and the regulation of street traffic will receive particular attention by the federation.

AGED HERO OF THE MEXICAN WAR DEAD

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 26.—William C. Wineboddle, aged ninety-four, so far as known, Pittsburg's last survivor of the Mexican war, died here yesterday. Mr. Wineboddle was wounded in a skirmish on the way to Mexico City but was present when the capital fell.

What to Do to Get Fat and Increase Weight

The Real Cause of Thinness

A Physician's Advice

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

This folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all over the body—something too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of the six of the most effective and powerful flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by Jacobs' Pharmacy and other good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.—(Advt.)

Many Recoveries From Lung Trouble

Eckman's Alterative has returned to health many sufferers from lung trouble. Read what it did in this case:

Wilmington, Del.

"Gentlemen:—In January, 1906, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. My physician, a leading practitioner, said that it was lung trouble. I got very weak. C. A. Lippincott, of Lippincott's Department Store, Wilmington, Del., recommended Eckman's Alterative that had done great good. I began taking it at once. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I now have no trouble with my lungs. I firmly believe Eckman's Alterative saved my life." (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) JAS. SQUIRES.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.

The Present in the Light of the Past

President Washington wrote, in September, 1796:

"After deliberate examination, with the aid of the best lights I could obtain, I was well satisfied that our country, under all the circumstances of the case, had a right to take and was bound, in duty and interest to take, a neutral position. Having taken it, I determined as far as should depend on me to maintain it with moderation, perseverence and firmness. The duty of holding a neutral conduct may be inferred, without anything more, from the obligation which justice and humanity impose on every nation, in cases in which it is free to act, to maintain inviolate the relations of peace and amity towards other nations."

President John Adams wrote, in May, 1797:

"It is my sincere desire to preserve peace and friendship with all nations. If we have committed errors and these can be demonstrated, we shall be willing to correct them; if we have done injuries, we shall be willing on conviction to redress them; and equal measures of justice, we have a right to expect from every other nation."

President Jefferson wrote, in October, 1803:

"We have seen with sincere concern the flames of war lighted again in Europe, and nations with whom we have the most friendly and useful relations engaged in mutual destruction. . . . In the course of this conflict, let it be our endeavor, as it is our interest and desire, to cultivate the friendship of the belligerent nations by every act of justice and of innocent kindness . . . to exact from every nation the observance towards our vessels and citizens of those principles and practices which all civilized people acknowledge; to merit the character of a just nation, and maintain that of an independent one, preferring every consequence to insult and habitual wrong."

President Madison wrote, in March, 1809:

"Indulging in no passions which trespass on the rights or repose of other nations, it has been the true glory of the United States to cultivate peace by observing justice, and to entitle itself to the respect of the nations at war ly fulfilling its neutral obligations with the most scrupulous impartiality. . . . This unexceptionable course could not avail against the injustice and violence of the belligerent Powers. In their rage against each other, principles of retaliation have been introduced, equally contrary to universal reason and acknowledged law."

Three years later President Madison wrote, in he same connection:

"Under pretended blockades, without the presence of an adequate force, and sometimes without the practicability of applying one, our commerce has been plundered in every sea. And to render the outrage the more signal, these mock blockades have been reiterated and enforced in the face of official communications from the British government, declaring as the true definition of a legal blockade, 'that particular ports must be actually invested and previous warning given to vessels bound to them not to enter.'"

Written more than a century ago, how true to present day circumstances are these words of the nation's forefathers!—Washington's insistence upon firm neutrality, Adams' insistence that all the warring nations treat us as justly as we were treating them, Jefferson's insistence that the rights of American vessels and American citizens be respected, Madison's insistence that "pretended blockades" should not interfere with the commerce and the rightful interests of the United States.

The spirit that animated those great leaders, the policies they adopted and the service they rendered live again in the course which President Wilson pursues at this trying juncture of the nation's foreign affairs.

Our forecast of more cold weather in February was justified. Look out for wind in March and showers in April.

Russia and the Bosporus.

Sir Edward Grey's announcement in the House of Commons that Great Britain "is in entire accord with Russia's desire for access to the sea" foreshadows one of the most important possibilities of the war. It suggests that if the Allies are ultimately victorious Russia will acquire Constantinople, and the Turks will be shoved out of Europe.

Russia's natural approach to world commerce lies through the Bosporus and the Dardanelles to the Aegean and the Mediterranean seas; and to gain that route has long been the dream of her diplomacy and the effort of her arms. Heretofore she has been opposed and thwarted by Great Britain, but now the British are favorably inclined, if not actually committed, to the Russian plan. The allied fleet is bombarding the Turkish defenses at the Dardanelles. If the attack is finally successful, Russia's warships, which are now bottled in the Black Sea will be released, together with hundreds of Russian merchant vessels.

The Trade Commission:

The Standpat Republicans of the Senate are gnashing their teeth over the President's appointments to the Federal Trade Commission. Their interests have been slighted, they protest, and their feelings coldly disregarded. Of the five members the President has named, three are Democrats, one is a progressive Republican and the other a straight-out Progressive. "Bolts and shackles!" the Standpatters cry; "is this all we are to get on a commission that will deal with the great corporations and have an important say-so in matters relating to the tariff?"

The law establishing the Trade Commission provides that not more than three of its members shall be of the same political party. The President is not bound to name any Republicans; certainly, he is not bound to name Republicans of the Cannon-Aldrich school; and had he done so, he would have acted contrary to public interests. The fact is, the President considered chiefly the fitness of the men he nominated, and secondarily their politics. Yet, their politics, the term being used in its broader sense, was properly scrutinized. A man who believed in special privileges for the trusts, who favored monopolies and a tariff arbitrarily high would be of no service on the Federal Trade Commission; rather, he would be a drawback and a danger. Naturally, Mr. Wilson appointed three Democrats, three real Democrats; and just as naturally, he appointed progressive rather than reactionary Republicans.

His nominations to membership on the Commission are: Joseph E. Davies, Democrat, of Wisconsin, now Commissioner of Corporations; William J. Harris, Democrat, of Georgia, now Director of the Census Bureau; W. H. Parry, progressive Republican, of Washington, editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer; and George H. Rublee, Progressive, of New Hampshire, a lawyer. The President spent more than three months and considered more than sixty eligible men before deciding upon these appointments. They are the result of searching investigation, governed by an earnest desire to serve the country's interests; as such they ought promptly to be confirmed.

Georgia is peculiarly gratified over the nomination of Mr. William J. Harris, of whose ability and character the people of this State have personal knowledge. As director of the Census Bureau, Mr. Harris has proved himself exceptionally competent. His business experience, his grasp of affairs and his loyalty to every public trust well qualify him for this responsible office.

The Federal Trade Commission has been aptly described as "a sort of mediating body, standing between corporations and Congress, and also serving as a kind of assistant to the Department of Justice: taking over entire the duties of the Bureau of Corporations, it will have to deal with a large number of questions relating to unfair trade practices, and to the general enforcement and reasonable application of the anti-trust laws." Another function of the Commission was suggested by President Wilson when he said in his Jackson Day speech at Indianapolis: "If by scientific treatment of the tariff, the Republicans mean adjustment to trade conditions of America and the world, then I am with them; and I want to call their attention, for though they voted for it, they apparently have not noticed it, to the fact that the bill which creates the Trade Commission provides for that very thing." The fact is, this Commission, with the right sort of personnel, will go far toward taking the tariff out of politics; and that is one of the major reasons why the Standpat Republicans are objecting to the President's appointments.

How time flies! Pretty soon we shall be receiving illustrated folders from the summer resorts.

What is needed now is an impartial historian to begin the writing of the history of the war.

Why shouldn't business improve? If it is picking up in the war zone, it is not surprising to see it get better a few thousand miles removed.

Editorial Echoes

German children have been asked to eat a little less sausage as a patriotic measure. The fact that there is a good deal less sausage will make it also a practical measure.—Courier-Journal.

We paid a visit to the town of Fair Bluff last week. Business conditions seem to be improving in that thriving little town. The merchants are looking better, and we did not hear anyone complain about the war. Judge Muldrow was presiding at the court with his usual ease and dignity. Two mules, hitched to a wagon, ran amuck down Main street, scattering pedestrians and making things lively.—Whitesville News-Reporter.

According to Dr. Hadley of Yale, "the man who makes politics a profession and has a wife and children will have the choice of doing that which is not quite right and staying in office or doing that which is right and getting out of office, permitting his wife and children to starve." The statement is somewhat large and professorial, but if taken as solemn truth, the moral seems to be that politicians should be bachelors.—New York Sun.

In the course of one of the all too few hours which I have for contemplation, for what Carlyle called "labeling one's thoughts," it occurred to me the other day how significant is the original meaning of the word recreation. Our theatrical managers speak of offering us entertainments, they speak of attractions—a hideous term!—but recreations, recreate, how true a definition in one word of what our pleasures, our leisure hours ought to do for us. To recreate the wasting tissues of our souls, the worn fibers of our brains, to recreate the zest and courage for life, to stimulate, to move, to cheer—that is the purpose of recreation; and art, particularly the art of the stage, has the power to accomplish that purpose.

Shakespeare Says---

When workmen strive to better what is well,
They do confound their skill in covetousness;
And oftentimes excusing of a fault
Doth make the fault the worse by the excuse,
As patches set upon a little breach
Discredit more in hiding of the fault
Than did the fault before it was so patch'd.
—King John.

The Journal's Letter Box

(The Journal welcomes short letters on seasonable subjects; but long epistles are a weariness to the flesh. In no circumstances will anonymous communications be published.)

Editor The Journal:

I have just read your account of the signing of the treaty of Ghent in 1814. It brings vividly to my memory "Yankee Doodle" as sung by the negroes at corn-shuckings years ago when I was a boy. The tune of Yankee Doodle is fully as inspiring as Dixie and I have wondered why the Daughters of the American revolution had not brought it to the front as it was the only patriotic music used by the soldiers of the Revolution in 1776. I only remember it as sung and patted in the dance around the fires lighted in the yard after the corn was shucked. I can only remember these words: "Ole Massa's gone to Heben—Yankee Doodle, doodle, doodle dandy dar now." If The Journal would print the song I have no doubt it would be greatly appreciated by your readers.

The Ideal and the Job

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1914, by Frank Crane.)

A YOUNG man writes me wanting to know how to decide between sticking to his ideals and earning a living.

He is an artist. As such, shall he paint only as the divine afflatus moves him, for which the money he gets is uncertain and small; or shall he lower himself to drawing illustrations for cigarette and soap advertisements, where profits are large?

When he takes his work to the publisher, the latter says: "I don't know much about art, but I know what the public wants, and you must change this, that, and the other thing." Shall he submit to this dictation, or stand for his own genius?

My answer is: Cherish your own vision by all means, for creative work without the heat of one's own peculiar inspiration is poor stuff. But—

But there are several points to be noted.

In the first place, you want to be rather sure what your ideals are. And to find that out it is necessary to wrestle with the workaday world. Not only is labor the test of inspiration, it is also the channel of inspiration.

Our private convictions are not much good until they are kneaded into the events that come to us from destiny. Our environment is an integral factor of our personality. We do not know what we are, without passing through experience, which means that we are the resulting compound of the force that is in us and the forces that act upon us.

Another thing, the first duty of a man is not to "follow his ideals." It is, rather to do some kind of work the world is willing to pay for. It is to earn a living, to take himself off the backs of other people, to present to mankind a marketable equivalent for the bread, shelter, and warmth given him.

The Apostle Paul, sewed tents for a living and only wrote his epistles after he had sold enough of his labor to get something to eat. And it is not degrading to any man to work, though he might use his hand finds to do, to provide for his wife and babies.

I like the story, printed in a Chicago paper the other day, of a young man of nineteen, who has already accumulated almost $2,000 by writing stories for magazines, yet who goes right on clerking in a hardware store, confining his literary activities to his sparetime. We would be saved a deal of callow tragedy if all young men and women of genius would hang on to their job while setting forth to make a living by art and letters.

Besides this it must be remembered that the same Deity that gives you your driving genius has made also the world you live in. And it is not unreasonable to suppose that the world is as much inspired in its way as you in yours.

John Wesley used to say to his young preachers something to the effect that when God calls a man to preach he calls somebody to hear him.

Let us not despise our time, nor the people of it, nor the demands of it. If we learn to understand and interpret our surroundings, to feel the zeitgeist, to read the message of events, and to known and love the people whom fate sends us; and if we respond to the wants of the world with all the talent we have, and seek to SERVE humanity instead of to criticize unlift, boss and scold it, we shall find ourselves much more quickly, and be not only true to our own ideals, but be a whole heap more agreeable to the folks that have to do with us.

TRAVELETTE

BY NIKSAH.

NO. 145—JEYPORE.

There is only one city in the world that is truly built to order—every street and house conforming to a rigid plan of architectural design and even carrying the faithfulness to the color of the paint. That city is what Kipling called a dream of pink and blue—Jeypore.

A long time ago, the maharajah of Jeypore had his seat in a typical Indian city in the hills. About the time the thirteen American colonies were fighting for their independence, this Indian ruler moved down into the plains and built a city according to his own ideas.

The streets were laid out on the plan of a chessboard, and with an amplitude that surpasses even the generosity of Washington, to be planned a few years later.

The houses were built according to design, and the sky line is always uniform, as are the decorations of cornice and frieze. And all the houses are in pink and blue—delicate pink and pale blue. Straight lines and right angles are the rule, but the palace of the winds, where the maharajah lives with his six hundred wives, is a structure of columns and huge flutings that resembles nothing so much as a gigantic pipe organ.

Into the palace, of course, no visitor may go. But there is a garden behind, and there, if one is lucky, permission may be had to stroll at will. But there is never a glimpse of one of his highness' wives. There is a tiny temple, and behind it a sluggish pool inhabited by the lazy and petted sacred crocodiles that answer to their names when your guide calls them and graciously eat the food you have provided from your own purse. Also the maharajah has tigers and elephants that you may visit.

If it be that you are provided with letters to the British resident you may even have an elephant for your own and take a ride on top of the huge beast to the deserted hill city that was of old the capital of Jeypore.

But before you leave you will not fail to buy sundry bits of that curiously carved and enamelled brass work for which Jeypore is famous, and of which Jeypore is proud.

"Senator Norris suggested that if General Villa knew how unprepared the United States was for war he would take the country in two weeks." Especially if Villa could effect a junction with the Piute Indians now in arms against the United States—The Evening Post.

THE RUSSIAN DEFEAT

BOTH Berlin and Petrograd speak of the battle of the Mazur region; but the decisive blow in the latest German victory was delivered at some distance to the north of the Mazur lakes, just south of the Niemen river, which here flows from east to west and enters Prussian territory as the Memel. Here the Germans initiated a formidable flanking movement against the Russian right wing, which turned and fled. No other interpretation is possible of the official Russian statement that the Russian right wing was compelled to make a "rapid turning movement." The rout at this end of the line left the center exposed, and this in turn gave way, though more slowly. The left wing yielded next, though obstinately. Now that the operation is complete it appears that the Russians have been driven back on an average of fifty miles from their advanced positions in east Prussia, and that the battle-line is today from fifteen to forty-five miles inside their own territory.

The moral effects of the German victory are obvious. Once more the immense superiority of the Kaiser's forces has been demonstrated, man for man. More emphatic is the established superiority of the German command. In no way is the efficiency of an army's leadership so tested as in the course of retreat. The case of the huge numbers of Russian prisoners are garnered after every defeat is less a reflection on the fighting qualities of the corps commanders. Along the line in the Carpathians the Russian private has demonstrated his staying powers. It is true that at no time have the Russians given such a sign of superb resistance as the stand made by the encircled German divisions to the south of Lodz in November. But even from the German side it is admitted that the Russians fight with courage. If they are gathered in by the tens of thousands after every victory, it is primarily the fault of their commanders. Thus General Hindenburg's first victory in November at Vloclacwek was gained over a single advanced corps, of which 28,000 men, or more than half the corps, were taken captive. Two corps, rushed up to their aid, were beaten at Kutno while out of touch with the main army. It is impossible to imagine the German forces thus exposed to separate defeat because of imperfect co-ordination.

With at least half its numbers gone, the Tenth Russian army, now driven from east Prussia, comes close to bearing out the German boast that it has ceased to exist. Yet there is some measure of justification in the Russian claim that "strategically" the defeat is not of vital account. Hindenburg's first victory in November by no means decided. The Russian lines in Galicia are well maintained. The beaten forces of the north have fallen back on the fortified river lines inside the Russian frontier. From Lovno on the Niemen this line follows the course of the river south to Grodno. There it veers southwest along the Bobr and the Narew until it strikes the Vistula in the neighborhood of Plonsk. That the Russians will here make an obstinate resistance is to be predicted from the precedent of last September, when the first Russian disaster in east Prussia was followed by a German advance to the Niemen and failure. Russia's resources in men must still be very large. The Tenth Russian army seems to have consisted at most of a quarter of a million men, and before its defeat it held a line more than 150 miles long. Compare this line with the line of similar length in central Poland, from the Bzura to the Nida, held by at least three times as many men, and there is reason for believing that the Russian operations against east Prussia have always been intended as a diversion. The object was not to march on Konigsberg and points west, but to hold a fairly wide strip of territory in east Prussia for the moral effect. So, too, on the German side the fact that east Prussia has been cleared of the enemy has been emphasized as much as the magnitude of the victory in prisoners and guns taken.

For, once more it should be recalled, by this time events have shown the virtual impossibility of realizing the primary purpose of war as laid down in German military theory—the defeat and destruction of the enemy's main forces. The size of present-day armies and the extent of the present day battle-line, together with the results of the first seven months' fighting, have made this plain. Peace will very likely come with exhaustion, and victory and defeat will be measured by a matching of territorial conquests. Today, Germany holds perhaps 25,000 square miles of Allied territory, while of her own soil only a strip in Alsace is in hostile occupation. It is a situation in which Germany can face the prospect of peace talk with equanimity. It is favorable on the national morale in case of an indefinite prolongation of hostilities. More than the advance and retreat of armies, more even than the occupation and loss of national territory, the maintenance of the national morale has become the object of the war—the test of nerves, as General Hindenburg declared.

In one respect, particularly, the repeated heavy defeats of the Russian armies may be expected in Germany to affect the moral situation unfavorably, by arousing discontent and suspicion among the Allies. Petrograd's official account of the east Prussian battle speaks of the Germans as having completed the formation of several new corps and having decided "to continue the transportation of troops from their west front." The phrase has occurred in previous Russian statements. Is there a hint here of dissatisfaction with the disproportionate burden thrown upon the Russian armies by the western Allies? In unofficial dispatches there is repeated reference to this state of feeling among Russian officers. What are France and England doing, is the impatient query around Warsaw. Every coalition is exposed to this danger of discontent within its ranks.—New York Evening Post.

FEDERAL DETECTIVE BUREAUS

1.—The Secret Service

By Frederic J. Haskin

BEST known of all the detective agencies of the government, surrounded by an atmosphere of romance such as attaches to no other organization of its kind in America, the secret service represents in the public mind our Uncle Samuel when he goes forth in the guise of a sleuth. Yet the secret service is but one of a dozen detective bureaus of the government. Several of these have much larger forces than has the secret service. Some of them cover a much wider field of activity. But the secret service is a sort of parent organization and the one that has gained first place in the public consciousness.

• • •

The activities of the secret service are limited by the statute which created it and are confined to a safeguarding of the coin and currency of the nation, and to the protection of the president. It has a small body of men assigned to the White House and the president's staff when he travels. There are never more than six men so assigned. The number of employes of the secret service is unknown, but is believed to be about seventy. The chief duty of these detectives is to prevent counterfeitors from duplicating the money of the nation and from thereby upsetting the stability of the circulating medium. It is no easy task, for every criminal in the nation sees the vision of unlimited wealth if he can but print a bill that cannot be distinguished from the government-made currency.

• • •

But a few months ago, bank tellers in St. Louis and Kansas City began to detect an occasional counterfeit. One of these was immediately sent to the Kansas City headquarters of the secret service. There an experienced man of the force was in charge. A casual look at the bill convinced him that he was familiar with the workmanship of it. Every man who engraves a plate is bound to allow his individuality to steal into the work. An expert, knowing the technique of given counterfeiters, can recognize their production just as an art connoisseur can tell that a painting is by Reynolds or Gainsborough the moment he sees it.

• • •

So this secret service agent knew the counterfeit was made by a certain man who was an old offender and who, as he remembered, was serving a term at Leavenworth. He called up the warden of the penitentiary and found that the suspect had recently been discharged. He communicated with the central office at Washington and was told that the whereabouts of the old offender were known, for it is the policy of the service to keep track of such men. His arrest and conviction soon followed.

• • •

This is the simplest sort of case. A bit different in the working out was that of a frank and attractive young man who appeared at the race track of a western city and bet hundred-dollar bills on various horses. Someone suspected that the bills were counterfeit and a secret service man was called into the case. The man was arrested.

• • •

He acknowledged betting the bills in question. He produced twenty-nine more of them from an inner pocket. He stated that he had found an envelope full of them in the railway station the day before. He said that he had wanted to return them to the owner and had placed an advertisement in the papers to that effect. He showed the advertisement. He had bet this money from indifference, as he had plenty of other money to make it up in case the owner was found.

• • •

So plausible was his story that his accusers were almost convinced. But he made a single mistake as every man who is lying will do if he is required to furnish sufficient detail. He had left the advertisement at one of the newspaper offices two hours before he claimed to have found the money. He was held for a thorough investigation.

• • •

The men of the secret service try hard for confessions. They are masters of psychology. They know that the counterfeiter has his secret always with him. He may not refer to it for years, but it is weighing him himself. It is a great weight on his mind. The effect of it may be heightened by solitary confinement.

• • •

So the suspect in this case was left alone for a week. In the meantime his past was investigated. It was found that he had a printing shop in a New England town. He was a skilled engraver. He had once worked in Washington where he associated with the men who make the dies from which the money of the government is printed. With these facts in hand the secret service man visited the accuser. It was easy to construct the whole story of the downfall of the engraver, of the sugestion of note-making received in Washington, of his admiration of the work done on the bank notes, of his experimental making of one, of his passing it as a proof of his skill, of his drifting into the business through his ownership of a shop where the work might be carried on secretly and which appeared to know more than he really did. The counterfeiter thought there was no use in denials. The effect of solitary confinement, of the secret locked up in his breast, weighed heavily upon him. He wanted to talk. He told the whole story.

• • •

There is a little, wrinkled, red-whiskered man down in the Atlanta penitentiary who has probably counterfeited more of the note issues of the world than any other man who ever lived. His name is John Schmidt, and William J. Flynn, now head of the secret service, was his nemesis. It was as far back as 1897 that Flynn, then a mere operative with the bureau, first crossed the track of Schmidt. The races were then on at Gravensend and it was found that someone was "pushing the queer" with the bookmakers. Flynn changed money in one of the stands for three days before one of the men with the bad money appeared. He shadowed the man and eventually captured him and four associates. From them he learned that the maker of the counterfeits was one Liberman, alias John Davis, alias Schmidt, who worked in London. He was not able to get Schmidt. Five years later some English banks notes, presented at a bank on the Bowery, were suspected of being counterfeit, and Flynn was again called into the case. They were easily traced to Schmidt but that individual escaped. Another series of years passed and one day a red-whiskered little man presented himself at Scotland Yard and stated that he knew all about a counterfeit issue that had been troubling England. He wanted to confess, claim immunity and the reward of a thousand pounds. These conditions being granted he said that he had made the money, but that his associates had double-crossed him and that he would therefore expose them.

• • •

A condition to Schmidt's immunity was that he return to Berlin, of which city he was a native, and that he never again live in England. During this celebrated exposure of counterfeiting in England, Secret Service Agent Flynn went to London to testify as to the notes that had been passed in America and there he saw Schmidt.

• • •

It was a year later that the secret service, through its careful supervision of the sources of supply of the materials that are used in making spurious money, found that quantities of such materials were being sent to a small New England town. They were traced to a certain house. Flynn himself raided the house and the first man he caught was the little German with the red beard. And so the star international counterfeiter found his way into an American prison.

The Searchlight

The value of the Japanese paper fabric "kamiko" for winter clothing was demonstrated by the Japanese soldiers when they were compelled to undergo the hardships of a Siberian winter. All of them wore paper underwear and vests, and these are not only warmer, but more comfortable than flannels. The only objection to this kind of clothing is that it is not washable; but this does not seem to be considered a drawback for military purposes; for the Russian army, profiting by what it learned from the little brown men in the Russo-Japanese war, is now making use of paper clothing in its winter campaign against Austria. Japanese firms in Yokohoma are making most of this clothing for the Russians.

The clothing called "Kamiko" is made from a paper manufactured of the bark of the mulberry tree. A thin layer of silk wadding is placed between two sheets of the paper, and the fabric is then quilted, making a garment that will keep the body at a remarkably uniform temperature.

These paper garments are not at all fragile, but wear well, and buttons may be sewed upon them in the ordinary manner. In Japan a vest of this material retails for about $1, but in large quantities, as purchased for military use, the material is, of course, much cheaper, and doubtless is much less expensive than wool.

Quips and Quiddities

A cart containing a number of field hands was being drawn by a mule. The driver, a darky of about twenty, was endeavoring to induce the mule to increase his speed, when suddenly the animal let fly its heels and dealt him such a kick that he was stretched on the ground in a twinkle. He lay rubbing his woolly pate where the mule had kicked him.

"Is he hurt?" asked a stranger anxiously of an old negro who had jumped from the conveyance and was standing over the prostrate driver.

"No, boss," was the reassuring reply; "dat mule will probably walk kind o' tender for a day or two, but he ain't hurt."—National Food Magazine.

A young Parisian, noted for his grace and readiness as a second in many duels, had been asked by a friend to accompany him to the mayor's office and affix his signature as a witness to the matrimonial ceremony.

He consented, but when the scene was reached awkwardly forgot himself.

Just as the mayor was ready for the last formalities, he broke out, to the astonishment of all parties, with the remark:

"Gentlemen, cannot this unhappy affair be arranged? Is there no way of preventing this sad occurence?"

J. P. NICHOLS IS LEADING GEORGIA BAPTIST LAYMEN

Church Entrusts Griffin Business Man With Many Important Duties

BY REV. A. W. BEALER.

J. P. Nichols is looked upon among the Baptists as the leading layman in the state. He is an unusually busy man and for that reason his brethren have laid their hands upon him and have committed great tasks into his hands. In Griffin, his home town, he is president of one bank and director in another. He is president of one cotton mill and treasurer of another. He has the unlimited confidence of the business world of his home town.

Recognizing his ability the First Baptist church to which he belongs elected him as one of its deacons and then put him at the head of the Sunday school by electing him superintendent.

The Flint River association to which the Griffin church belongs appointed him as chairman of the layman's committee. Then the state convention appointed him as chairman of the laymen's committee for the whole state. Through his efforts this Baptist men's meeting was made possible. In addition to all of these things Mr. Nichols was elected president of the Georgia Baptist assembly whose annual encampment is held at Blue Ridge.

Mr. Nichols believes in and practices the injunction of Jesus "Seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things (material interests) shall be added unto you." He is never too busy to do anything that would advance the interest of the Lord's cause.

J. P. NICHOLS, business man of Griffin, who is recognized by Baptists as the leading layman of the state.

INTEREST INCREASING IN RACE FOR BAZAR QUEEN

All Prepartions Complete for Opening of Charity Show Tuesday

With all preparations complete for the charity bazar which will open next Tuesday at the auditorium and continue through Saturday night, interest is daily growing in the contest for queen of the bazar.

Ballot boxes in the queen election have been placed at Brown & Allen's, E. H. Cone's, Jacobs' pharmacies at Forsyth and Marietta streets and 6 Marietta street, and at all five United Cigar stores. Bulletins, changed daily, showing how the race is going, are placed over the ballot boxes, where one may vote at a penny a vote or buy a book of tickets from a candidate which entitles her to 200 votes.

ONE THOUSAND BOOKS NEEDED BY THE POOR

Mayor Woodward Thursday afternoon announced the reappointment for another two-year term of all of the members of the board of lady visitors to the public schools save Mrs. W. M. Everett, who has moved from the Tenth ward, which she represented. Her successor will be appointed within a few days.

The members reappointed to the board are Miss Theresa Agnes Erskine, First ward; Miss Cora Brown, Second ward; Mrs. N. H. Kirkpatrick, Third ward; Mrs. John D. Pickett, Fourth ward; Mrs. G. C. Jones, Seventh ward; Mrs. W. T. McCullough, Eighth ward, and Mrs. V. H. Kriegshaber, Ninth ward.

Mrs. Pickett, president of the board, made her report to the board of education Thursday and in the report she stressed the fact that more than 1,000 books are needed by the poor children in the schools and she urged the board to seek a method of providing these books. James L. Key gave $25 to this end and other contributions are expected.

ALL SOUTHERN BELL OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

President W. T. Gentry and other officers of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company were re-elected at the annual stockholders' meeting which was held in New York on Thursday. President Gentry, in his report, said that business in the south had been hurt by the stagnation of the cotton market, but was improving. The following directors were elected:

U. N. Bethell, N. C. Kingsbury, Theo N. Vail, C. H. Wilson, George D. Milne, W. T. Gentry and J. Epps Brown.

The directors met and re-elected the following officers: W. T. Gentry, president; J. Epps Brown, first vice president; J. M. B. Hoxsey, second vice president and treasurer; LeLand Hume, third vice president; Hunt Chipley, general counsel; C. J. Holditch, general auditor, and Addison Maupin, secretary and assistant treasurer.

WOMAN BUYS FIRST TICKET TO FRISCO

WANT LAKEWOOD MADE PART OF PARK SYSTEM

Chamber Committee Would Have It Conducted as Other City Parks Are

That Lakewood park be made a regular part of the city park system, just as Piedmont park and Grant park are now, with free bathing facilities, a public golf links, adequate tennis courts, baseball diamonds and playgrounds for children, was proposed to the board of directors of the chamber of commerce Thursday by the chamber's committee on parks and playgrounds, of which Albert S. Adams is chairman.

The question will probably be taken up with the park board in the near future. The recommendations of the chamber's committee provide that only that part of Lakewood be made a part of the park system which will not be used directly by the Southeastern Fair association; that the park shall not be rented, but be placed under direct control of the park department, with proper police protection and other features which are now characteristic of other parks in the city; and that a comprehensive plan of landscape development be adopted which shall make Lakewood one of the finest recreation centers in the south.

MAKES STUDY OF NEGRO IN ALL PARTS OF WORLD

Ernest Sevier Cox, of Knoxville, Will Put His Findings in Book Form

For five years Ernest Sevier Cox, of Knoxville, Tenn., has traveled the earth over studying the negro problem. Now, his labors completed, he is in Atlanta recovering from an attack of fever caught in the wilds of South America, and soon he will go to Washington to write five volumes in which the result of his investigations will be given to the world.

Dr. Cox is a sociologist, a graduate of Vanderbilt university and a post-graduate of the University of Chicago. For years a resident of the south, he was intimate with the negro problem, and through much study the conviction was born upon him that while many writers had dealt with the colored race in America, history was practically bare of facts concerning the negro in other lands.

So five years ago, in 1910, he began his journeyings which resulted in intimate knowledge of the negro in every country of the globe. For three years he was in Africa, visiting at least one negro colony of each European power and twenty-five British colonies. While in the dark continent, he took the 5,000 mile trip from the Cape to Cairo, 1,800 miles of which were accomplished on foot, himself the only white man in the party.

In 1912, Dr. Cox began investigations of the blacks in Australasia and the East Indies, but returned to America to enlist when the situation grew acute between the United States and Mexico and troops were sent to Vera Cruz. But when he got back to Tennessee the trouble was over. So he departed on the last stage of his travels, South America and the West Indies. For the past year he has been in the heart of South America, crossing the continent from Lima, Peru, to Para, Brazil, in the course of which journey he had a narrow escape when his canoe turned over in the reaches of the upper Amazon.

Dr. Cox was smitten with malaria in South America, and is not yet recovered. In Atlanta he is visiting his sister, Mrs. C. D. Pines, on Cooper street.

Dr. Cox was smitten with malaria in for presenting the result of his study of the negro. He will take account of his adventures sojourneying, one will be devoted to negro governments in vicinity of Liberia and Sierra Leone, will tell of various civilizations of the ages which have perished through internal fire with the negro. A fourth will compare the various negro colonies governed by European powers, and a fifth will describe the negro in modern Southern Europe.

GERMAN CATTLE EATING TOO MANY POTATOES

Price Is Raised to Prevent the Farmers Feeding Them to Live Stock

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, via London, Feb. 26.—The Bundes Rath, having learned that German farmers were using potatoes too freely for fodder, has raised the prices of potato products. It is believed this will prevent consumption of potatoes by cattle.

In future potato flakes will cost $8.75 per 220 pounds and potato starch $12 per 220 pounds.

Under their former prices potatoes were much the cheapest cattle food available, and farmers were storing them for use for their live stock.

The maximum potato price for the district of Brandenburg, not on February 15, has been suspended, leaving dealers unrestricted as to price. It has been explained officially that certain difficulties in the matter of Berlin's potato supply are due in part to the lack of laborers on farms and to transportation difficulties. A further factor is that cities west of Berlin have for the most part fixed no prices and great quantities of potatoes have been shipped from the east through Berlin to the west.

REID DEFENDS ACTS OF ROCK ISLAND COMPANY

Says Much of Additional Capitalization Remained in Bank Vaults

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Inquiry into financial affairs of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company was resumed before the interstate commerce today with Daniel G. Reid, head of the group which controlled the system from 1901 to 1914, again testifying.

Mr. Rid's examinatin dealt with organization of the two Rock Island holding company which the counsel for the commission maintained resulted in "watering" the stock of the operating company from $60,000,000 to $250,000,000. Mr. Reid testified that the only earning power behind the additional stock was the original railroad company but insisted that $150,000,000 of the additional capitalization had never been taken out of bank vaults.

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION POISONS SYSTEM

All food eaten has some waste, unused particles left in the bowels digested. From this waste uric acid generates, and when uric acid gets in the blood stream it poisons the system. This is termed Autotoxemia. Indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, sallowness, loss of energy and a weakened physical condition result and make the system vulnerable to disease. Eliminate autotoxemia and you could live to be hundreds of years old.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT flushes the stomach and the bowels, dissolves the uric acid and expels it with the undigested putrefying waste matter that generates the poisons.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is better than calomel. It causes no vomiting, nausea or after effect. Effervescent, agreeable, mild, quick—no other liver medicine is equal to it. Don't take an inferior substitute, it may be similar in name, but JACOBS' LIVER SALT. Large jar, 25c. For sale by all Jacobs' Pharmacy Stores and all druggists.—(Advt.)

ERNEST SEVIER COX, of Knoxville, Tenn., who will put into five volumes the result of five years' of study of the negro race in all parts of world.

THEATERS

There has been a steady capacity business at the Forsyth this week, because the bill of vaudeville is one of the best of the season. Headliners are not always necessary to the success of a bill; as a matter of fact, it is the combination of all the acts that make or fail in producing the sort of entertainment that keeps a theater busy.

Next week's program will carry Harry Cooper for headliner. This funny character comedian has never been seen in Atlanta. He is assisted by a partner in "The Mail Carrier," one of the funniest ideas in vaudeville. Marie and Billy Hart, in "The Circus Girl;" the Langdons, in "A Night on the Boulevard;" and Hermine Shone and company, in "The Last of the Quakers," are among the features.

"Hypocrites," the wonderful screen success now crowding the Longacre theater in New York at a dollar a seat, will be the attraction at the Lyric all of next week, starting Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and continuing at night at 8:20 and then every day, at the hours. It has been arranged that the price of admission at the Lyric will be 25 cents for the best seat afternoon or night. The box office at the Lyric is now open for the accommodation of the people who desire to secure reservations in advance and orders by messenger or telephone will be given prompt attention.

"Old Plantation Days," with th singing and dancing of the large number of negroes, is attracting much talk at the Atlanta. The play is being given by the Baldwin-Melville company, with the assistance of fifty-odd colored players who give some fine examples of singing and dancing on the plantation and levee scenes. The show remains at the Atlanta all this week, with a matinee Saturday afternoon.

George Arliss has played the role of Disraeli in Louis N. Parker's comedy, "Disraeli," which local theatergoers will have the first opportunity of seeing at the Atlanta theater for four nights beginning next Wednesday, nearly fifteen hundred times, his is Mr. Arliss' farewell tour in Mr. Parker's play, as he will make a new production in New York next September. The character of the famous English statesman has been considered his greatest role. Seats go on sale Saturday morning.

Hanovers a Puzzle to Shoemen and Shoe Wearers Who Can't Understand Such Value for $3 and $3.50

Shoes of superb style, high-class finish and excellent quality, which people who have worn them say are also perfect fitting, long wearing and unusually comfortable, are bound to attract much attention when sold a couple of dollars under price. Everybody is asking how we can sell for $3.00 and $3.50 a shoe which seems to equal the $5.00 kind in every way. Even leather salesmen and shoe machinery agents can't understand how we do it, and they know what goes into our shoes as well as into the other fellows'. They will tell you that the materials, construction and workmanship of Hanovers are identical with $5 shoes.

Shoe manufacturers everywhere recognize the superior value of our shoes, call us fools and predict our failure. It's true, we sell Hanovers too close, but we've outgrown factory after factory and are now making and retailing more medium-priced shoes than any other factory in the world. You see where we come out—quantity counts. Coupled with the enormous product is our maker-to-wearer system, which eliminates the middlemen, and by putting their profits into the shoe we are enabled to produce not only the greatest shoe value on earth, but the cheapest standard article of wearing apparel of any kind ever sold. Try Hanovers next time—once a wearer, always a wearer.

ALDERMAN MADDOX FIRES HOT SHOT AT HIS CRITICS

Tells Fifth Ward Club Why He Joined Caucus on Finance Sheet Amendments

Those who had criticised him for joining the council caucus and insisting upon amendments to the January finance sheet were severely denounced by Alderman J. W. Maddox at the meeting of the Fifth Ward Improvement club Thursday evening.

The alderman directed his remarks in the main to Dr. V. M. Barrett and C. J. Bowden, president of the club, both of whom, he said, had been unfair in their public criticisms of him. He declared that in future he would ignore the club and consult directly with the citizens of the Fifth ward.

Alderman Maddox took exception to certain criticisms which were made of him at the last meeting of the club. He said his critics had taken advantage of his absence from the city to attack him. The alderman said he entered into the caucus and supported the amendments to the finance sheet because it carried $5,000 for a school house at Howell station and that he feared if the mayor's veto of the sheet were sustained this appropriation would be lost.

Dr. Barrett at first resented Alderman Maddox's remarks and declared that he was able to take care of himself. Later he disclaimed any intention of being unfair to Alderman Maddox and offered a resolution carrying a vote of confidence in the alderman. This resolution was unanimously adopted. President Bowden stated that the utterances accredited to him were incorrect. He denied that he had sought to relieve upon Alderman Maddox.

Speeches were made to the members of the club by County Commissioner J. Oscar Mills, General Manager of Parks J. O. Cochran and John D. Sisson.

LITTLE CONSERVATION LEGISLATION EXPECTED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Prospects for the passage of conservation legislation desired by the administration during the present session of congress are very slim, according to Senator Walsh of Montana, who has been trying to get action on the water power leasing bill and the general dam bill. He made this statement following a conference with President Wilson last night at which the situation was discussed. Senator Walsh said, however, that an effort would be made to have the senate pass the Shields general dam bill.

Howell Bound Over

A. M. Howell was arraigned in municipal court Thursday afternoon on a charge of forgery and, waiving a preliminary hearing, was bound over to the grand jury under bond of $1,250, which he failed to make and was sent to jail.

CONGRESS IS RUSHING APPROPRIATION BILLS

Hope Still Exists of Passing Some General Legislation Before Adjournment

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Congress was driving ahead today with the big appropriation bills in the hope of passing some general legislation before adjournment of the session next Thursday.

Administration senators are continuing their efforts to get action on the government ship purchase bill, but there is no assurance that it will again be considered in the senate at this session. It is thought possible the Philippine bill may be passed if certain amendments to the preamble can be agreed on.

The senate had before it today for consideration the naval and the fortification appropriation bills, while the house continued work on the general deficiency bill, the last of the supply measures awaiting action in that body. The senate before it adjourned last night passed the agricultural appropriation bill after adopting an amendment to the measure providing for government loans to farmers, made considerable progress on the naval bill and began consideration of the fortifications bill.

Cotton Ship Seeks Safety by Painting U. S. Flag on Sides

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The steamship City of Savannah of the Savannah line is to be loaded with cotton for Germany and, as a protection against German submarines, she has a big American flag painted on each side that will be illuminated at night.

The City of Savannah sailed yesterday for Wilmington, N. C., where she will load 10,000 bales and steam for Rotterdam.

NEW FORD PLANT TO EMPLOY LOCAL MEN

There is a total now of 180 men at work in the Ford assembly plant, which has just been opened at Ponce de Leon avenue and the Southern railway belt line.

Within the next few weeks, 200 more will be employed at the plant, and, contrary to the general impression, most of these will be local people, very few being sent here from Detroit.

PIUTE INDIANS REFUSE TO SURRENDER TO OFFICERS

Forty-Eight Warriors Entrench and Are Ready for Battle

(By Associated Press.)

DENVER, Feb. 26.—Efforts of government agents and Indians friendly to the whites to induce the band of Piute Indians who are aiding Tse-Ne-Gat in evading arrest on a charge of murder, have failed, according to reports received here from Bluff, Utah today. Navajo scouts have reported to United States Marshal Nebeker that the squaws and papooses in the band of fugitives have been taken to a place of safety across the San Juan river.

Forthy-eight warriors, headed by "Old Polk," father of Tse-Ne-Gat and "Old Posey" are said to be entrenched in what is known as "Butler's Wash," a few miles southwest of Bluff and are prepared to resist the posse of federal deputies. Marshal Nebeker, it is stated, will make another atempt to surround and capture the Indians with his present force and will not ask for federal troops for the present at least.

ENGLAND'S QUEEN SENDS MESSAGE TO BERNHARDT

Expresses Deepest Regret Over Misfortune Which Befell Famous Tragedienne

BORDEAUX, via Paris, Feb. 26.—A message of sympathy has been received by Sarah Bernhardt from the Queen Mother, Alexandra, of Great Britain, who telegraphed:

"I have learned with the deepest regret of the misfortune which has stricken you and feel the sincerest sympathy for you in your suffering, a sympathy which all England hafres for the greatest artist in the world."

NEWS OF WOMEN AND SOCIETY

Party Series for Visitors

A series of delightful parties will mark the short stay of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Guernsey, of New York, who arrived Thursday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Chipley until Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chipley gave a beautiful dinner party of eight covers Thursday evening, in honor of their guests and Friday afternoon Mrs. Walter Howard entertained twelve guests at tea at the home of her parents, Judge and Mrs. William T. Newman, on Forrest avenue, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Guernsey. On this occasion Miss Ella Barrett, of Alexandria, Va., who is visiting Mrs. Samuel Weyman, shared honors.

Among other pleasant affairs planned in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Guernsey will be Mr. and Mrs. Linton Hopkins' dinner party of ten covers this evening; the dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gentry will entertain at the Piedmont club Saturday evening, and the informal dinner party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weyman at their home Monday evening.

Spend-the-Day Party

A pleasant event of Thursday was the informal spend-the-day party given by Mrs. W. W. Austell at her apartment in the Sumner in honor of Mrs. O. E. Mitchell, of Portland, Ore.

The guests included a number of friends who formerly lived in Cartersville, the old home of the hostess, and were Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. John Henderson, Mrs. Ben Padgett, Sr., Mrs. George Muse, Mrs. John Akin, Mrs. Fanny Shepard Ransaur, Mrs. Fanny Clayton, Mrs. Alex C. Smith, Mrs. Annie Cone, Mrs. Mark Scott, Mrs. Ben Porter and Mrs. Alice Shropshire.

Bridge Party for Visitor

The first prize for the ladies was a pearl handled riding crop and the men's first prize was a pair of silver spurs. The tally cards were hand painted hunting scenes, in water color, the artistic work of the hostess.

After the game a delicious buffet supper was served, the ices being frozen in the shape of horseshoes and the table carrying out the idea of a cross-country hunt.

Lecture at Woman's Club

The second in the series of opera lectures being given at the Woman's club was an event of Friday morning and was well attended. "Tales of Hoffman" was most interestingly interpreted by Miss Nana Tucker and selections from the tuneful opera were sung by Mrs. Peyton Todd and Mrs. John Cooper, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. George White.

Dance at Vesper Club

The Vesper club members will entertain Friday evening with a dance and the honor guest will be Miss Louise Hill, of Macon.

The chaperons will include Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Adair, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Black, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Park, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Walthal.

Dancing Party for Visitors

Mrs. Ora Blodgett will entertain at a dancing party Saturday evening at her apartment in the Mendenhall, in honor of Mrs. Georgia Honea and Miss Bernice Denton.

To Mrs. Carrington

Mrs. Bolling H. Jones entertained at luncheon Friday at 1 o'clock, in compliment to her guest, Mrs. W. F. Carrington, of Virginia. On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Jones will entertain at a small dinner party at their home on East Fourteenth street, in honor of Mrs. Carrington.

Birthday Party

Master C. B. Babb, Jr., entertained five little boy playmates Wednesday afternoon in celebration of his fifth birthday. He was assisted in entertaining by his little sister, Katherine Babb. A game of "Mary's little lamb" was very much enjoyed by the children and the prize, a box of candy, was won by Master Eddins Hogan. During the afternoon the children were seated around a beautifully decorated table for a luncheon. The dining room was artistically decorated in red, with red shades over the lights, and United States flags.

The table had as a centerpiece a large mound of fruit surmounted by the birthday cake with its five candles.

Guests at Children's Party

The pretty decorations were pink hyacinths, carnations and white narcissi, the center of the dining room table was a large cake embossed in white, surmounted with eight pink tapers, and the bonbons and ices carried out the color motif of pink.

For the game of Buster Brown the prizes were handsome picture books, won by Marguerite Burnley and J. C. Malsby, and dancing was a feature of the afternoon.

The guests were Eloise Gaines, Marguerite Burnley, Margaret Wade, Elizabeth Werner, Adelaide Tignor, Lollie Harrison, Ethel Hunter, Elizabeth Malsby, Henrietta Malsby, Evelyn Dunn, Betty Gilmore, Florence Boykin, Frances Woolley, Virginia Bates, Frances Bates, Katherine Bates, Virginia Boyston, Irene Thomas, Lillian LeConte, Nisbet LeConte, Margaret Hodnett, Wilhelmina Dougherty, Katherine Lindner, Elizabeth Ogden, Arthur Knipe, Lamar Ellis, Lancing Thomas, John Stetner, Jack Rose, Allen Boykin, Alexander Gaines, Sidney Yancy, George Ward, Anderson Redding, George Carlin, Henry Leonard, William Dunn, A. C. Malsby, Lloyd Hatcher, Claude Frederick, Jr., and Dodson Choate.

Mrs. H. E. Choate served punch and assisting in entertaining were Mrs. D. O. Dougherty, Mrs. J. L. Wilson and Miss Edith Russell.

Mrs. Smart to Entertain

Mrs. Arthur Smart will entertain twenty guests at bridge Friday afternoon, March 5, at her apartment in the Wyckliffe.

Change of Meeting

The Reviewers have changed their date of meeting from Tuesday to Wednesday on account of conflicting with the assemblies of the Drama league. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, March 3, with Mrs. E. C. Cartledge at the Imperial hotel.

Five o'Clock Tea at Woodbine

The tea at which Mrs. William Lawson Peel entertained Friday afternoon was a delightful occasion which assembled a coterie of friends to greet Miss Katherine Glover, Atlanta's gifted magazine writer, who is spending a short while with relatives, and to meet Madame Charlotte de Galiere Davenport, eminent lecturer on physical hygiene.

A charming hospitality was dispensed by Mrs. Peel, who presided over a beautifully appointed tea table, and during the afternoon the guests were entertained with delightful musical selections.

Five o'Clock Tea

The 5 o'clock tea given by Mrs. E. G. Thomas and Miss Marjorie Thomas Friday afternoon was a pretty compliment to their guests, Miss Ruth Wilson, of Baltimore, and Miss Ethel Lounsbury, of Opelika, Ala.

The drawing room and parlor were adorned with pink and white carnations and the color motif of yellow used in the dining room was carried out by a profusion of jonquils arranged on the mantel, buffet and in a mound on the center of the tea table.

Mrs. Caswell Aycock poured tea and Miss Mary Thomas, Miss Alice Wilson, Miss Martha Boykin and Miss Evelyn Lovett served punch.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. L. J. McGill, Mrs. L. M. Gosney, Miss Ruth Johnson and Miss Hazel Kirk.

Miss Lounsbury was gowned in gray crepe de chine, Miss Ruth Wilson wore green charmeuse and tulle, Mrs. Thomas was attired in black brocade and satin and Miss Thomas was gowned in pink satin veiled in lace.

Serving Luncheon

Mrs. T. B. Gay and her committee of young girls of the First Presbyterian church are serving lunches daily from 4 to 7 for the benefit of their society. Miss Martha Louise Cassels will be in charge Saturday.

To Visitors

Mrs. M. S. Brodhead, of Philadelphia, and Miss Florence Brown, of New Haven, who are the guests of Miss Daisy Martin, are being delightfully entertained during their visit.

Miss Mary Moore will be hostess at a matinee party at the Atlanta theater Monday afternoon, and Mrs. Walter P. Stanley will entertain at an informal tea later in the afternoon.

Mrs. Harry Schlesinger will give a luncheon Tuesday at her home on West Peachtree street in compliment to the attractive visitors.

Dancing Party

Miss Frances Ellis will be hostess at a dancing party Saturday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis, in Ansley Park.

Y. M. C. A. Social Supper

Saturday evening at 6:30, Dr. J. L. White, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, will be the speaker of the occasion, his subject being, "The Life Worth While."

You know what Cottolene is made of

There is no secret about Cottolene.

The world has known Cottolene for over twenty-five years.

It was in the van of the great movement for the improvement of food products.

It is an exact combination of pure, ultra-refined cotton-seed oil (a grade so high it is not listed in the market) with beef-stearine from clean, fresh, leaf beef suet.

That is what produces the splendid qualities for shortening, frying and cake-making in

Cottolene

There is an appetizing appeal in the thought that your foods are cooked with Cottolene—made of an oil that is far superior to most salad oils and as fine as the best, combined with the choicest part of rich, leaf beef suet.

Nothing has ever been found to equal this combination. For more than a quarter of a century Cottolene has been alone—and has held an unchallenged leadership.

Order a pail of Cottolene from your grocer today and use it in shortening, frying, or cake-making. Added to its splendid results is its economy—you use one-third less than of any ordinary cooking fat. Arrange with your grocer for a regular supply.

Improving the Hours

Goethe, the great German poet and thinker, said: "Do not wait for extraordinary opportunities, but make use of common situations."

If this store did not make use of every golden minute—and waste no time—the business would be profitless to us and to you. If we waited without working, or dreamed without acting, our usefulness would grow less and less.

Another great man once said: "Never be unemployed; never be triflingly employed; never while away time."

This store is careful of the minutes, and the hours take care of themselves. It will grow more and more helpful with the passing of time.

Washington Party

The George Washington idea prevailed, the decorations being red and white carnations, and the dance programs were ornamented with photographs of General Washington. Paper caps and other novelties in red, white and blue were given as favors. A large cake embossed in white, topped with red and blue tapers formed the centerpiece of the dining room table.

S. I. S. P. Club Celebrates Eleventh Anniversary

The S. I. S. P. club of the Young Women's Christian association celebrated its eleventh anniversary on the evening of the 22d. with a reception to its old members at the Y. W. C. A. headquarters, 54 Houston stret. Besides the membership of the club the following officers of the Y. W. C. A. were present: Mrs. W. S. Witham, Mrs. Emily McDougald, Mrs. Cornelia Bacon Osburn; Miss Lucretia Block, Miss Alice Wingo and Miss Molly Courtney.

A delicious supper was served to seventy guests, the colors of the club, gold and white, being carried out in the decorations and refreshments.

Miss Genevieve Saunders, the popular president of the club, greeted the guests and introduced in succession the former presidents, who made bright one-minute responses, which were received with great applause by the old club members, as reminiscences of eleven years were brought to mind. Messages and telegrams of greeting were read from old club members who are now scattered over twelve states of the union, the District of Columbia and Canada. Former presidents were: Miss Sarah Alexander, Miss Mary Mendenhall, Mrs. Ned S. Johnson, Mrs. Mabel George Leighton, Miss Carrie Thomas, Miss Lalla Bernard, Miss Bernice Withers, Miss Ellen Douglas, Miss Mamie Williams, Miss Lena Oetter, Miss Sadie Bomar, Miss Bessie Covington and Miss Genevieve Saunders.

The address by Miss Sarah Converse, who has been leader of the club's literary activities for ten years, was replete with brightness and wit, and was listened to with the most enthusiastic attention. Miss Betzner delighted the guests with some of her most graceful aesthetic dances, and the evening's entertainment was concluded with the singing of an original club song to the air of Tipperary.

Following is the program in full:

Prayer—Miss Alice Logan Wingo.

Club welcome—Miss Genevieve Saunders.

Piano solo—Miss Helen Shaid.

Solo dance, "Psyche"—Miss Era Betzner.

Club song—S. I. S. P. club.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

MRS. S. J. TOOLE DIES AT HOME OF HER SON

Mrs. Sarah J. Toole, widow of the late John F. Toole, of Macon, died at the residence of her son, J. E. Toole, 41 Columbia avenue, Thursday night. She was sixty-seven years old and is survived by three sons, Dr. Charles L. Toole, Macon; W. H. Toole, president of the First National bank, of Winder, and a director of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, and J. E. Toole, of this city; also a daughter, Mrs. Alice Breedlove, of Little Rock; a sister, Mrs. J. K. Kinman, of Bartow, Ga., and a brother, William Brown, of Florida.

The body was removed to Barclay & Brandon's chapel and was taken Friday to Macon for funeral and interment.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY TO MR. HUNTER POPE

Mr. Hunter Pope, widely known traveling salesman for the Swift Fertilizer company, died suddenly in Meansville, Ga., Friday morning. He was thirty-nine years old and a prominent citizen of Decatur, Ga.

Surviving him are his wife; his mother, Mrs. Mary Lucia Pope, and his daughter, Thelma. The body was brought to Patterson's chapel. The arrangements for funeral have not been completed.

PRESENTS NEW VIEW ABOUT BREAKING JAIL

Moonshiner Denies "Breaking" Out—Says He Just Walked With Others

It is possible for a man to escape from jail involuntarily, according to the viewpoint of Jim Jones, a moonshiner from Murray county, who, after being rearrested, was arraigned before Judge Newman in the federal court Friday morning.

Jones left the jail at Rome last December with four or five other prisoners. He had served less than thirty days of a four-month term.

"Why did you escape?" asked the court.

"I didn't, your honor," Jones, a red-headed man past middle age, replied "You see, some other fellows got out. I simply followed them."

"They broke the jail; you simply walked out," the court commented.

Judge Newman decided to allow Jones to continue serving his setence at the Fulton county jail. He told Assistant District Attorney Henley to look further into the case and see what action the government should take on the escape feature.

WOMEN GIVE FUNDS FOR AID OF NEGRO SCHOOL

Two checks for $100 each have been received by Captain J. W. English for use in buying up purchase money notes of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, the negro training school.

These contributions were the result of a few letters from Rev. Richard D. Stinson, president of the school, advising friends of the school of the urgent needs. They were sent by Mrs. G. F. Swift, of Chicago, and Miss Mary E. Converse, of Philadelphia. Miss Converse is the daughter of the late John Converse, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works. Both she and Mrs. Swift have taken a considerable interest in the work of industrial training among the negroes.

FARMERS' RALLY DAY AT ROME IS BIG SUCCESS

ROME, Ga., Feb. 26.—Friday is being observed as Farmers' Rally day in Rome, and numerous farmers of the Seventh district are hearing speakers furnished by the Georgia Federation of Woman's clubs. Former Representative Barry Wright presided at the meeting and the address of welcome was delivered by Mayor J. D. Hanks of Rome. In the party are J. D. Price, state commissioner of agriculture; A. M. Soule, president of the state college of agriculture; M. L. Brittain, state school commissioner; Mrs. Nellie Peters Black and Mrs. Lyman Amsden.

REVENUE OFFICERS RAID LARGE STILL

One of the largest stills ever raided by the department was seized near Waleska, in Cherokee county, on Wednesday night by R. E. Tuttle, a deputy revenue officer and Tom Curtis and W. S. Kemp. They found 6,000 gallons of beer and elaborate equipment. The operators of the still were not caught.

Incidentally the men were almost drowned in crossing a swollen creek against the advice of a native driver. They had to cut loose two horses from the buggy and swim out.

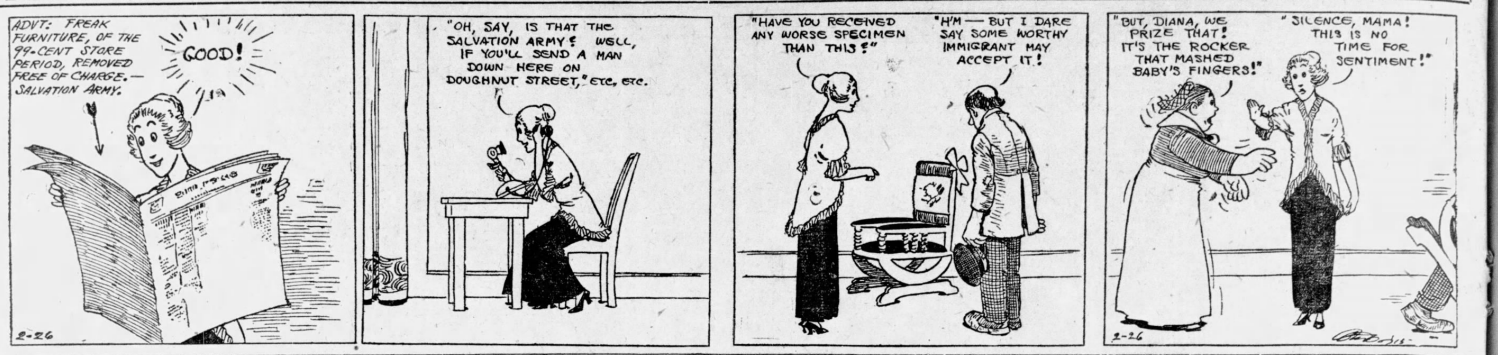
DIANA DILLPICKLES IN (OH, WELL, THERE ARE BUT A FEW LEFT) A 4-REEL "SCREECHER" FILM



Whitney Wins Over Jake Abel In Fast Battle

"Fighting Carpenter" Has the Best of Five Rounds--Abel Gets One, and Rest Are Even--Bout One of Best Ever Staged in the City

By Innis Brown

In the absence of late dispatches, there is no way of telling just how young Frankie Howard, the Jacksonville fistic phenom, spent last evening, other than that he is at present sojourning in the city of Havana. But unless Howard suddenly awoke to find himself in the midst of a tornado, he can congratulate himself on the fact that he chose to stay in Havana, rather than come here and fill the boxing engagement entered into with Frank Whitney a short time since. A south sea typhoon or a Kansas cyclone would hardly have used Howard any rougher than Whitney would, had the Jacksonville lad elected to pay a visit to this city, as once scheduled.

The above inference is drawn from the reception which the "Fighting Carpenter" handed Jake Abel, a late arrival in the city. Jake was down on the bill as a substitute for Howard. After the reception Jake received, it is probable that he would just as soon Howard settle all the arguments he may start in the future himself, especially where Frank Whitney is concerned.

Whitney was rewarded for the decision. It had been decided to leave the matter up to a vote of local sport writers, for fear that the affair might be very close, and a decision by Mike Rand, third man in the ring, might not meet with the approval of the house. But Mike couldn't have missed the turn on that battle had he been occupying a seat high in the last row in the gallery of the theater, instead of dashing about the ring, prying the two boys loose from clinches, and otherwise overseeing their activities.

According to the opinion of the scribes, Whitney had an edge in five of the ten rounds. Abel was given preference in one, the sixth. The others were adjudged about even. Whitney piled up his most distinct margin in the eighth, when he sent Abel to the floor with a vicious right uppercut. The punch was slipped over on Abel before he knew what was happening, and sent him down clean. Abel got his edge in the sixth, when he got to Whitney with several straight lefts, and opened a cut over Frank's right eye.

While the match was a substitution for the original Whitney-Howard bout, no one in the house could have told but what it had been cooked up, and especially prepared after long and laborious details. It was one of the fastest, most furious ring battles ever staged in this city. The pair, it was announced in advance, bore no love for each other. Before the first round had been finished, this declaration was verified beyond any shadow of doubt. The usual few minutes of sparring around and feeling each other out was promptly dispensed with, and both boys went in to do business from the jump.

Whitney organized his attack early for an assault on the Chattanooga lad's law, having been informed that this was the most vulnerable spot about his opponent. Not until the fourth round did Frank make any play for the body. He was shooting in straight left, and working all the time for an opportunity to put that right uppercut into service. He finally got his chance with this punch in the eighth, when he sent Abel to the floor with a clean drop. He also took advantage of every clinch to play for the jaw, with uppercuts and jabs.

Abel in the meantime was trying hard to slam a left straight through. But Whitney was guarding cleverly. Finally Jake began to play a left hook, and he got it over on several occasions. Once or twice he slipped a straight jab through, this rocked Whitney's head, Abel was overweight, and his extra poundage was scarcely a help to him. He had taken the bout on short notice, and was not in as good condition as he might have been with longer time to prepare. But he battled as valiantly as ever any boy did. In the tenth, and final round, when he must have known that he was beaten, barring a lucky punch that he might get over, he spent every second of his time, wading in. All things considered, the bout was one of the best ever staged in this city.

Davis Is Named Captain of Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—Harry Davis will captain the Philadelphia Americans this season, it was announced Thursday by Manager Connie Mack. Ira Thomas, last year's captain, will have complete charge of the pitchers. Davis for the past two years has coached the Athletic players.

Bout Called Off

NEW YORK, Feb 26.—The match between Leach Cross and Johnny Dundee, lightweights, which was to have been decided here tonig'ht has been canceled on account of the illness of Cross. Ad Wolgast, who originally was to have been Cross' opponent, injured his arm in training.

The Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

In the same way the spirits of John Franklin Baker and of Ralph Waldo Emerson are not as far apart as one might imagine the space to be between a home run hitter and a poet-philosopher.

Thou art not my friend, and I'm not thine;
Long through the weary crowds I roam,
But now, proud world, I'm going home."

Baker in the same way expressed the idea:

"Good-by to Flattery's fawning face;
To Grandeur with his wise grimace;
To upstart Wealth's averted eye,
To supple office, low and high;
To crowded halls—to court and street,
To frozen hearts and hasting feet;
To those who go and those who come—
Good-by, proud world, I'm going home."

Baker expressed the same idea in a slightly different way. But evidently the two might well have been "brothers under the skin."

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Announcement was made in these dispatches yesterday of the Open Ears Co., Lt'd, organized by Sewell Ford and George Ade. This company agrees to furnish Willing Listeners, at moderate hourly rates, to all golfers.

We absolutely guarantee any purchase of stock, whether common or preferred, in this company, for it is sure to reach a sensational growth.

For this company, furnishing a Listener to every golfer who desires to describe each stroke and exude a number of alibies, is of keen interest not only to the golfer but to the golfer's family, friends, casual acquaintances and even total strangers who may be in the road. If the golfer refuses to hire a Genial Listener from the company, his friends at least will be only too glad to have a representative called in, regardless of the price.

GREAT ENTERPRISE.

This is no chaffing matter. Messrs Ford and Ade are to be congratulated for having devised one of the greatest of all boons to humanity.

There are now 700,000 golfers in America. The families of these golfers number at least 2,000,000. In addition there are outside friends to the number of 10,000,000.

So the Willing Ears Co., Lt'd., appeals directly to at least 13,700,000 folks!

In addition, when the company is fully organized it will furnish employment to 700,000 men, and possibly a great many more, as most golfers will want at least two Willing Listeners around. So that means over 14,000,000 people—men, women and children, affected by this miraculous organization.

STILL ON THE JOB.

Home-run Baker has quit baseball for the farm; Hobe Baker is going to quit New York for St. Paul, and Homer Baker is planning to quit the running game for cycle racing.

But those bakers in charge of the bread supply are entirely willing to stay put without the semblance of a shift—save in price.

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

Who gravely bow response unto the cheer,
Who, if they had to face one peasant's charge,

"Why haven't baseball conditions been greatly improved for the player?" H. L. K. desires to know. "Isn't the player getting more money than he ever got before?"

Many of them are. But how about those 600 players who will be cut adrift by May through the inability of club owners to stand the heavy tax? Are conditions improved where those getting good money receive additional kale at the expense of those barely making a living?

SACRIFICE HITS.

Walter Johnson's period of partial unpopularity still has six weeks to run—or up to 4 p. m. on the afternoon of April 14, when he pitches his first shut out.

Few ball players have any tendency to step away from the plate when the old dinner gong begins to boom.

But batting .319 for the Red Sox was of no great help to the Reds where in 78 games Hoblitzel batted .210 and stole only seven bases. Herzog might counter with the old lyric—

What care I how great he be?"

Yale is going back for help to the Old Guard that held only the tradition of victory. With Hinkey in charge the mighty Heffelfinger has been summoned to take charge of the line. It is easy enough to see just how that 26-0 smear from last fall jolted the Bull Dog, for when November arrives the final ounce of preparation will have been packed on with nothing overlooked.

Federals Draft Schedule Today

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 26.—The making of a schedule with the franchise of one of its clubs in litigation was the problem that faced Federal league magnates at the opening of their second annual meeting here today.

D. J. Haff and S. T. Gilmore, of Kansas City, were on hand to fight for retention of that city on the circuit and Patrick T. Powers, who proposes to switch Kansas City's franchise to Newark, was present to look after Newark's interests. Powers took the position that it was the task of President James A. Gilmore to straighten out the injunction proceedings started by Haff and Gilmore at Chicago.

Every club president was present had and every manger was represented except Fielder Jones, of St. Louis, who leaves tomorrow for Cuba on a spring training trip.

Umpires Johnstone, Westervelt, Fyfe, Howell, McCormack, Shannon and Finneran were at a meeting called by Chief Umpire Brennan for a general discussion of the rules governing the playing end of the game.

Cubs Pack Kits For Training Camps

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Baggage was packed for members of the Chicago club of the National league today for their departure tonight on their spring training trip to Tampa, Fla.

Only eleven players, including Manager Roger Bresnahan, will leave from here, the others going to the training camp direct from their homes or joining the squad en route. President Charles Thomas plans to spend a week in the south watching his players in their early practice.

The squad is due to reach Tampa on Sunday and work will be started on Monday.

F. Welsh Wins Press Decision Over C. White

Lightweight King Had Better of Five Rounds, While Three Went to White and Two Were Even--The Champion Showed Speed--White Finished Strong

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 26.—Freddie Welsh outboxed Charlie White in a ten-round no decision boxing contest at the Auditorium last night, according to the almost unanimous opinion of sporting writers. Welsh appeared to have had the advantage of five rounds, the third to seventh inclusive. White shaded his opponent in the ninth and tenth and the first, second and eighth appeared to be even.

The Englishman had White at his mercy during most of the fight, being fast and clever and getting away without punishment. White was slow and seemed unable to solve Welsh's whirlwind attack.

In the earlier rounds Welsh set a brisk pace but found White willing to mix. White waited carefully for openings, evidently hoping to shoot in the short left hook for which he is famous, but the champion's shifty footwork and clever blocking made many of his efforts of no avail. White seemed more confident than in their former meeting and the first two rounds seemed to spectators to be fairly even.

Welsh's fast left jab did excellent execution in the third and fairly smothered the Chicagoan, who fought back wildly. Freddie landed half a dozen punches to Charlie's face without a return. A wild swing of the challenger accidentally landed low, but apparently did no damage to Welsh. White's seconds urged him to mix, but his rushes in most cases were avoided or checked by the champion's left jab. Freddie danced around the challenger, landing almost at will in the fifth and sixth rounds. He used a hard right swing to the head and landed it frequently. White continually tried to whip in his left, but Welsh was too shifty.

White's eyes were puffed and he became so wild in the seventh and eighth that the crowd began to hoot. Welsh timed his blows carefully and drove them in almost without return. White landed a clean, hard left to the body in the eighth.

White made a desperate attempt to even matters in the ninth and came out of his corner with a rush, swinging both hands. He landed several times, but his punches apparently did not slow the champion, although his aggressiveness gave him a shade the better of the session in the opinion of experts. He continued his rushing tactics in the final round and Welsh met him toe to toe. The champion seemed somewhat tired, but his superior cleverness saved him from any serious punishment. White missed repeatedly.

Griffin Lands Berth In Georgia-Alabama League

NEWNAN, Ga., Feb. 26.—At an adjourned meeting of the Georgia-Alabama league held here Thursday Selma, Ala., was voted out of the league and her franchise turned over to Griffin, Ga., for a cash consideration.

The personnel of the league will, therefore, be Griffin, LaGrange, Newnan and Rome in Georgia and Anniston and Talladega in Alabama.

It was also decided that a 60-game schedule would be used, but with the proviso that if at the end of this time, the clubs saw fit, they could increase the schedule to 90 games. This provides for one season.

The salary limit remained at $750 as agreed upon at the meeting in Talladega, though some of the clubs made a fight to have it raised to $850.

If reports sent out to New Orleans papers are correct, the baseball outlook in Little Rock for the coming season is not what might be termed roseate. It appears that the Arkansas city is in a bad way over playing grounds, and also that much of the money, which was subscribed by business men and others of the city for landing the Montgomery franchise last fall, is yet to be paid in, and the organization in handicapped by a lack of funds.

Manager Bill Smith stated when he returned from the league meeting last week, that the situation did not look especially promising to him. He says Bob Allen is very much up in the air over the proposition, and that with the time for starting practice work so close at hand, the pilot of the Travelers is growing very nervous over the situation. It is hinted in the despatches to the New Orleans paper that another transfer of the franchise may be made before the season is finished. Knoxville, favored as the next choice, in case a further change is made.

Frank Manush, former Cracker drifted into the city Thursday morning. Frank came direct from his home in Tuscumbia. He says he has been spending the winter with a daily routine of rural stunts. "Have done everything on a farm, except milg and feed the chickens" is the way Frank puts it. He expects to spend a few days here with friends, and will then go on to Albany, where he will manage the club again this season.

Hank Gowdy, the Boston fence-buster, leaves this afternoon for Macon, where he will join the rest of his club for training work. The big fellow occupied a ringside seat at the Whitney-Abel fistic bout last night, and true to all ring tradition, where celebrities are present, he was introduced to the crowd. After a loud burst of applause, he was called on for a speech. He modestly declined, however, and in lieu thereof, the announcer made a speech by proxy of what Gowdy should have said, etc.

Notice Given Johnson by Feds

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Walter Johnson, star pitcher of the American league, who jumped to the Chicago Federals from the Washington Americans last fall and then returned to Washington has been notified to report for spring training at Shreveport, La., on March 6, Manager Tinker, of the Chicago Federal club, announced today.

Johnson, Tinker said, had been sent the same letter that went to other players who will go direct from their homes to the camp. He said he advised Johnson not to report to Washington, in the event that he had decided to join the Federals, until after United States District Judge Landis announces his decision in the Federal league anti-trust suit.

"This decision may determine Johnson's case," Tinker said, "and I understand he's decided to go wherever Judge Landis decides he belongs."

COTTON MARKET NERVOUS AND IRREGULAR ALL DAY

Market in New York Closed 2 Points Off to 2 Points Up From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Cotton showed a good deal of nervousness at the opening today, owing to indifferent showing of Liverpool, and continued apprehension as to the course of the government. First prices were 2 to 3 points lower and the new months sold 4 to 6 points under last night's closing figures right after the call as the result of scattered liquidation. Offerings, however, were limited owing to the advance almost to the buying point prices soon showed an covering with the active months selling at or a point higher than before the end of the first hour. Trading was very quiet with local operators waiting for a more settled situation with a disposition to take risks, and shifting conditions generally.

No fresh feature developed during the middle of the day, but reports that some Bedge selling, was showing itself in the market at New York as long limited some scattering liquidation and prices were 2 to 3 points off from the best of the morning.

The market sold about 4 to 5 points net under liquidation of the early afternoon, but steadied on 4 or 5 points around 2 o'clock on reports that the government crop report is the character of the news.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—The price of cotton lost 10 points in the early trading today on the opening call selling orders came in from the north and cables were lower. Spots were also sold steady and decline kept down to small points by the demand from the south and from shorts.

Later the market made some display of strength and went a to 5 points over yesterday's close. The weakness was short lived, however, stimulated fresh selling and at noon prices were at net decline of 2 to 5 points.

Selling increased during the noon hour and at 1:30 prices were at a net loss of 6 to 8 points.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS

Carpenter & Co.: While situation at present looks as though the prices would tend toward a higher level, that condition has yet to begin on declines.

Hubbard & Carpenter & Co.: There is not much bearish or long except as an investment, but the short side is certainly not safe.

Logan & Bryan: War zone considerations are uppermost in the minds of the trade and extensive narrow market attend by quick fluctuations is likely to be the order for some time.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER

New York, Feb. 26.—Political news in the morning's press was discouraging. Senator Lodge's speech on the subject of granting Wilson's proposition, with a consequent bearish effect on the market, and the announcement of suspension of insurance to neutrals' rates is likely to cause a further decline.

Talmadge extended the blockade zone down to Sabine Pass and declared a blockade against the East African coast.

Liverpool was as due on futures and quote spots 3 points lower on sales of 7,000 bales.

Weather conditions overnight were good, there being a rainfall over the belt of .01 to .40 inches and for a spell of bad weather coming on the latter part of the week, the outlook is good.

First trades this morning were at a decline of 2 to 3 points on the active months, but it held up by a demand in New York, which, according to advices, is largely on account of shorts. A substantial curtailment seems to be in sight.

While this is anticipated, the paralysis is ripping by political conditions becomes more and more a fact, while prospects further on the bear side as it might lead to the reselling of the government and accentuate the effect of the usual spring liquidation in spots.

Bears in New York this morning shows no disturbance to exportation. Exporters here think that business is practical suspended, the insurance rates and the rapidly increasing war zone being irregular and unsettled. Liverpool has received 5 bales this week 80,000 bales of American cotton, against 67,000 las tyear. The last spot sales were 7,000 bales, only a small local affair.

Expert business practically absent; trade, however, are firm.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS FIRM AND HIGHER

Canadian Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific, Copper, Reading and Steel Led

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Gains were the rule in today's early stock market and a fair degree of activity. The rise was most noticeable when the special group where advances of a point or more were registered. Metal shares also were prominent, the success of the Anaconda Copper note offering acting as a stimulant to those issues. United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel reflected a moderate demand. Baldwin Locomotive preferred, with a 1-point decline to 90, was the only stock to recover a minimum price in the early dealings. Prices for Paris exchange in London were raised, but a quotation of further was developments.

Prices offered less resistance in the early afternoon, specialties showing greater weakness. Coppers and rails of the Rock Island system made lower records.

Bonds generally were firm.

STOCK MARKET OPINIONS

Logan & Bryan: The spirit of caution which has governed the action of the majority for some time past will doubtless continue until definite and unmistakable news more clearly defines the situation.

Joseph: A sensational cable says: The admiralty orders suspension immediately of all sailings for New York from London and Liverpool.

Harrison leases especially Union Pacific, is conspicuously cheap and will assume market leadership, buy this stock on little dips and Canadian Pacific. Wheat will break badly.

Weather Conditions

Forecast till 7 p. m. Saturday:

Atlanta and vicinity: Fair tonight and Saturday.

Georgia: Fair tonight and Saturday; frost tonight.

The storm of the New England coast is still in evidence and has increased somewhat in force, being accompanied by high winds in the northeastern section and snow in the lower lake region. West of this disturbance the atmospheric pressure is quite high, and the temperatures have fallen to below zero in Manitoba.

The southwestern disturbance covers the entire eastern territory and is accompanied by general precipitation in the Plateau and Rocky Mountain regions, and cloudy weather eastward over the cotton belt. Rains have commenced generally in Texas, and snow is falling at numerous northwestern places.

Temperatures are moderately lower in the eastern part of the cotton belt, and it is generally cold in the west and northwest, with temperatures ranging from 40 degrees at Jacksonville and 32 degrees at Atlanta to 4 degrees at Duluth, Minn., and 4 degrees below zero at Winnipeg.

Fair weather is indicated for Atlanta tonight and Saturday, with moderately cold weather.

Section Director.

SENSATIONAL DECLINE IN WHEAT PRICES AT CHICAGO

Wheat Closed 3 to 4 3-8 Cts. Down—Corn and Oats Off. Pork, Lard and Sides Up

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Wheat dropped 7½c in half an hour today under excited selling, due to reports that the other defenses to the Dardanelles had been forced. Prices broke sharply in the face of announcement that a foreign government had ordered an offer on 17,000,000 bushels to be shipped within 40 days. The opening, 2½@2¾c under last night, was followed by rallies of a cent or more, but then came on the crash and subsequent reactions of lessened vigor.

Assertion that some spot cash wheat was being sold to the seaboard had a steadying effect after May wheat had dropped 7¾ to 1.46. The best seeming support came just at the close. Closing prices were unsettled at 3 to 4 under last night.

Corn tumbled as a result of the wheat break. After opening lower to 1.03 to 1.03¼, a decline continued unchecked, but by no means as severely as the wheat.

After corn declines had amounted to about 2¼c, the market responding to announcements that six hundred thousand bushels had been sold to go to France, the close was nervous at ¾ to 1⅝c under last night.

PURTELL'S ALLEGED PAL CONFESSES. THE POLICE CLAIM

garage on Porter place, says Dr. Whitehead, where some unknown men changed the license number on it and afterwards drove it away.

"I went to Purtell's office Thursday afternoon," said Dr. Whitehead. "He told me he had traced the car to a point on the roadside 110 miles from Atlanta and that the cost of recovering it would be $160. He declined to go further in such a sum, and Purtell very abruptly informed me that he had gone to some expense for long distance telephone calls; that it would cost something to bring the car back to Atlanta, and that it would be necessary for me to pay a reward to the man who found the car and also that I must pay him a recovery fee of $35. The total cost to me he said would be $75, and that I could not get the machine back for less.

CHARGES THREAT.

"When I demurred at what I thought the excessive sum demanded Purtell then threatened to have a news story inserted in the papers to the effect that my automobile which had been originally purchased by my sister had been found in the possession of a thief in it at the time were a quantity of hairpins, a woman's slipper, some fruit and other articles, indicating that it had been used for a joy ride.

"Feeling that Purtell was endeavoring to blackmail me and that I had been sold a bill of goods when he said the car had been found 110 miles from Atlanta (because I knew the car had been in the Courtland street garage all of Wednesday night) I had him arrested."

Detectives Black, Garner, Allen and Shaw are working on the case and expect to make several other arrests within the next day or two.

$20,000 ASKED FOR AN ATTEMPTED KISS

Miss Ruby Patillo, Sixteen Years Old, Sues Loyd S. Rainwater

Through her mother as next friend, Miss Ruby Patilla, a sixteen-year-old girls, Friday filed a joint suit for $20,000 damages against Loyd S. The suit was filed by Attorney R. E. Church.

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY ADVOCATED BY TAFT

CINCINNATI, Feb. 26.—Standardization of educational systems through the central medium of a national university was advocated by William H. Taft in an address here today before the National Education association.

"Our school systems are not as much scrutinized as they should be," said Mr. Taft. "Indeed, it now is difficult for the public of a community to learn the facts as to the thoroughness of the discipline and of the knowledge imparted in their schools, or of economy in the expenditure of their funds devoted to education. There is great opportunity for fustian and shoddy in the product concealed under the cloak of a pretentious curriculum and glowing annual reports.

"What we need in the country is an opportunity for standardization and comparison of school systems in the different states and different cities. This, I think, we might have by establishing what Washington recommended—a national university in Washington."

U. S. PROPOSAL IS VIEWED WITH FAVOR IN GERMANY

Believed Government Will Agree to Terms If Great Britain Will

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(Via London.)—The American note to Germany and Great Britain on the subject of foodstuffs to civilian populations of belligerents and submarine activities at sea has been a subject of exhaustive discussion for the past two days between German authorities and American Ambassador Gerard. As a result of this close attention the German reply is gradually taking definite form. The correspondent of the Associated Press has been assured by a most competent and reliable authority that the American proposals are regarded as constituting a satisfactory basis for future negotiation and that they are themselves in many respects acceptable. Certain of the proposals, however, will be subjected to more or less important modifications.

Government circles have expressed themselves as impressed by the friendly spirit in which these proposals have been advanced and the evident desire on the part of the American administration to reach a solution of the difficulties involved in the present methods of maritime warfare to belligerents and neutrals alike.

The American note probably will not be published here until the German response has been sent forward.

It is difficult to obtain any authoritative expression of opinion concerning the German viewpoint of the situation from any government official or to overcome the censorship restrictions in treating of the matter in news dispatches sent out from Berlin. Judging, however, from a general knowledge of German policy and intentions, it may be said with confidence that little difficulty will be experienced as far as Germany is concerned, in reaching a mutual agreement for discontinuance of floating mines. The attitude of the German admiralty on mine planting along hostile coasts, however, is at the present time unknown.

Trans-Atlantic Liners Not Held Up, Declare Officials

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Officials of the International Mercantile Marine, operating trans-Atlantic liners on the American, Atlantic Transport, White Star and Red Star lines, declared today they had no notification fro mthe British admiralty that New York sailings had been temporarily suspended from Liverpool, London or Glasgow, as some news dispatches said.

Cunard line officials said they also were without such notification.

Swedish Steamer Reaches Rotterdam Badly Damaged

(By Associated Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 26.—(Via London.)—The Swedish steamer Svarton, from Rotterdam, arrived today at Ymuiden, Holland, with a large hole in her starboard side near the bow. The captain said she had been damaged Thursday afternoon either by a mine or torpedo. Probably a mine.

The British trade commer Weshawken, concerning which anxiety was felt after one of her life buoys was picked up at Aberdeen, is safe at Barry, says a dispatch from London.

U. S. Wants High Seas Free From All Unnecessary Mines

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Administration officials were looking forward with unabated interest today to early responses to the American government's informal proposals to Great Britain and Germany for the elimination of dangers to neutral shipping.

These suggestions include removal of all unnecessary mines in the high seas and provide for the distribution of foodstuffs to the German civilian population and the abandonment of the German submarine warfare on merchant ships.

The American proposals have been submitted by England to her allies, France and Russia, for consideration. At the same time the British cabinet has taken them under consideration. Officials here expect that a reply will be forthcoming in a few days. Unofficial advices fail to disclose the attitude of the British cabinet towards the latest American move.

While merchant vessels still are being destroyed by mines and torpedoes, Secretary McAdoo, of the treasury department, has ordered that all ports in the British Isles, including the continental port of Bordeaux, be made "special ports requiring special rates of war insurance from the government bureau." This was done because of dangers to ships in the new German war zone.

THOUSANDS OF SHELLS THROWN INTO RHEIMS

Whole Blocks Collapse Like Card Houses, Says Eye Witness

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 26.—The bombardment of Rheims reached its maximum in severity on the night of February 21, according to C. Lenoir, deputy for Rhelms, who was in the city at that time. Shells began falling at 9 o'clock and continued to rain down until 2.15 a. m. The projectiles came from all parts of the German front, from the northwest to the east.

The gunners seemed to aim especially at the First ward of the city, M. Lenoir said. That section hitherto had been spared. Fire broke out in twenty places at once, and whole blocks collapsed like card houses.

Official reports show that over 2,000 shells have been thrown on the old working quarter of the city, causing destruction of 400 houses. The bombardment was resumed at 10 a. m. on the 22d and continued intermittently until 4 p. m.

SPECIAL SESSION OF SENATE IS DISCUSSED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A special session of the senate after March 4 to consider the Columbian and Nicaraguan treaties was discussed at length by President Wilson with the cabinet today but no final decision was reached. A wide difference of opinion developed.

RUSSIA TRYING TO BUY WAR GOODS IN PITTSBURG

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 26.—Negotiations are in progress between the Russian government and a large machine company here for $10,000,000 worth of war munitions, principally sharpnel shells.

ed on the day of our inspection. Some of the windows on each side of the jail should be lowered from the top, so as to afford fresh air tnerein.

"The boiler room and basement deserve special praise. The same are orderly and cleanly.

"While doubtless this institution is managed better at present than in former years, we cannot accord it unstinted praise. This comment is not intended as a reflection upon any official, for we are bound to admit that some of the conditions now obtaining are due to our present archaic and undemocratic fee system.

Thanks are given to the force of the solicitor's office, Solicitor Hugh Dorsey is praised, the splendid ability of the judges of Fulton's courts is commended, and special thanks are given to Judge Hill for the courtesies extended by him.

At the close of the presentments General A. J. West, foreman, spoke feelingly and with the highest tribute of "the great Ben Hill, his neighbors loved to call him," father of Judge Benjamin H. Hill.

Judge Hill agreed with the grand jury in the fact that Atlanta had an admirable and efficient police force, and said that Atlanta was one of the best and most moral cities in the United States. He deplored the friction between the police department and other branches of the municipal government, and hoped that this friction would pass off soon.

The grand jury for the March term of the superior court will be sworn in by Judge Hill Monday morning at 9 o'clock.
